HOW REORGANIZER NEWMAN MADE A MILLION IN KANSAS CITY

Followed General Plan in Re-financing Street Railways There That Is Being Applied to U. R. Here — $5,000,000 of Securities Wiped Out.

30-YEAR FRANCHISE; 8 PER CENT RETURN

Bought Bonds at 75 and Lower and Sent Them to Par—Stands to Receive 11 Per Cent Yearly on $1,900,000 Investment-Car Fare 8 Cents.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 20.—J. S. Newman, New Orleans and New York promoter, has reorganized the financial structure of the bankrupt street railway company here and passed on, leaving the straphangers with an 8-cent fare and taking for himself a handsome profit estimated at $1,000,000 or more.

It was not a difficult problem for a "professional reorganizer," as Newman terms himself, to create money-maker out of the insolvent Kansas City Railways, which he achieved by organizing the Kansas City Public Service Co., and taking over it the street railway properties and obtaining a 30-year franchise from the city.

Newman's financial methods here were in general the same that he is following in reorganizing the United Railways Co. in St. Louis.

The drifting bulk of the Kansas City street car company was sighted by Newman in 1919. A comparatively small investment in some of its first mortgage bonds provided an opportunity to study its possibilities at close range. By the following year the company was in the hands of receivers, and the first step toward reorganization had been taken.

Condition of the Company.

At that time the company was unable to meet its obligations. The earnings were insufficient, after operating expenses to pay interest on outstanding bonds, damage suit judgments, or other debts which had accumulated. The receivers, Fred W. Fleming and Francis M. Wilson, were appointed Sept. 9, 1920, by Judge Klimbrough Stone in the United States District Court in Kansas City.

The capitalization of the company then included, in addition to $100,000 (par value) of stock on which no dividends had been paid in many years, $15,917,400 of first mortgage 5 per cent bonds; $3,000,000 of collateral 7 per cent notes; $7,750,000 of common 7 per cent notes; $4,924,000 of second mortgage 5 per cent and 6 per cent bonds; and $400,000 of secured promissory notes, all of which there was a direct obligation to pay interest. In addition there were damage suit judgments constantly increasing in volume, $1,787,000 of promissory notes, and growing claims of various kinds.

By July 1, 1925, the date of the final reorganization plan agreed upon, the total of all these obligations were reduced by the company and the reorganization committee, from Point Barrow, Alaska, for the unexplored regions of the North, had made a safe return to Bexley Point.

In the early stages of the reorganization and as the usual preliminary steps toward reorganization of a utility, there were self-appointed committees representing the various classes of securities, each seeking to work out a plan of reorganization, and each, of course, seeking to obtain the consent of the others to a plan under which its particular securities would obtain the highest possible consideration.

Steps in Reorganization.

In October, 1923, the Reorganization Committee, representing the interests which finally were successful, was appointed by the first mortgage bond holders and the collateral gold note holders.

This committee succeeded in settling all the issues at litigation except those raised by the second mortgage bondholders, by the holders of some of the promissory notes, and by various stockholders. Trial of these unsettled issues in the Federal Court in April, 1924, the contentions of the reorganization committee representing the

ROAD SIGN BLOWN 50 MILES DURING STORM IN ILLINOIS

Bank Officers Take Refuge in Vault When Wind Wrecks Buildings Over Heads.

A farmer near Alexander, Ill., picked up a road sign with the word "Carrollton" on it. The distance to Carrollton, on the edge of yesterday's Illinois windstorm area is 50 miles.

At Cornland, M. B. Drake, cashier, and his assistant at the Cornland Bank, had rushed into the bank vault before the building collapsed. They were not hurt.

Physicians and nurses entered several stricken areas on horseback and on foot because roads were impassable.

Ed Gresham, a farmer near Hardin, confined to his bed with appendicitis, was carried across a 20-foot creek, when the squall lifted his house and set it down again.

Charles Hughes, storekeeper at Cornland, was standing in the center of his store when the roof fell in and the back of the store collapsed. He was not scratched.

A garage and barn were picked up by the storm at Cornland and deposited on the roof of a house nearby. The automobile, a new machine, was not damaged.

In Morgan County, adjoining Sangamon County, farmers reported seeing tin roofs and debris flying high overhead, but felt no effect of the storm except a high wind.

HOW SMITH REPLY WAS STOLEN

By the Associated Press.

CONCORD, N. H., April 20.—One or more copies of the May issue of The Atlantic Monthly, containing the letter of Gov. Smith of New York on politics and religion, were stolen by an employee from the plant of the Herald Press last Friday, William S. Rossiter, president of the concern, said today.

The copies were delivered to someone who purported to be the representative of an out-of-town newspaper. The employee was discharged. Rossiter's statement was the outcome of an investigation undertaken when advance proofs of the Smith article were published prematurely in several newspapers. "It seems probable that The Atlantic Monthly will take legal action against newspapers that benefited by this illicit proceeding," said Rossiter.

ATTORNEY LOSES $5000, NOT INSURED

Two Men With Pistols Leap From Another Machine After Crowding Intended Victims to Curb.

By the Associated Press. HOLLYWOOD, Cal., April 20.—Paul Kelly, film juvenile, faced a manslaughter charge today in connection with the death of Ray Raymond, musical comedy star, on his own admission that he had engaged in a fist fight with the actor in a quarrel over Raymond's wife, Dorothy Mackaye, stage actress.

Raymond died at a hospital in the former's home Saturday night.

Details of the affair were not revealed until yesterday, because Dr. Arthur Sullivan, who attended Raymond, signed a death certificate giving nephritis as the cause of the death. Raymond's body showed several cuts and bruises.

The arrest of Kelly, who is 27 years old, followed an investigation by Captain of Detectives Herman Kline when he learned an attempt had been made to withhold the facts regarding Raymond's death.

Deputy District Attorney Ellis Eells, after questioning Kelly, Miss Mackaye and other witnesses, said he would request the issuance of a manslaughter complaint against the screen player. The Prosecutor said Kelly would be held on the manslaughter charge pending the outcome of a Coroner's inquest.

In a statement to police, told of the fight with Raymond and frankly professed to be in love with the actor's wife.

"I love Dorothy; I always have and always will," he said.

Wife Caused Trouble.

Miss Mackaye, who was under a doctor's care at her home, admitted that it was her friendship for Kelly that caused the trouble between the youth and her husband.

"I met Paul when he was a kid actor in New York," she said, "our friendship was so clean, lovely and beautiful that I didn't want to give him up."

Miss Mackaye admitted Kelly had talked to her of marriage in case she divorced Raymond.

"But it was so remote that I didn't even think about it," she said.

An eye witness account of the fight between Kelly and Raymond was given to police by Ethel Lee, Negro maid in the actor's home. She described Raymond as a reluctant combatant who was knocked down a half dozen times before he attempted to strike back.

Maid's Story of Fight.

"When Kelly came to the house he walked over to Raymond as though he were about to fight," the maid said. "But Raymond just said, 'sit down and let's talk this thing over.'

"They went over and sat down on the davenport and Raymond said, 'What's your alibi?' Kelly was quotted Raymond as saying to Kelly, "You are 50 pounds heavier than I am. I haven't eaten for two weeks. I have been drinking and am just a wreck."

"That's your alibi," Kelly was said to have retorted as he floored Raymond. He knocked him down again and again and then Raymond with one hand and punched him with the other, the maid said.

KNOCKED DOWN MANY TIMES.

Raymond was hurled upon a couch and fell to the floor. As he struck his head, he struck his first blow, a light tap.

"I am not able to fight you, but I will," the maid said Raymond should to his adversary.

Kelly, according to the maid's account, continued to knock Raymond down as fast as the actor could get back on his feet. A crushing blow to the left eye dropped Raymond for the last time.

Kelly said he had merely punched Raymond several times and was "very much surprised" at the result.

Miss Mackaye disclosed that she had visited Kelly in his apartment.

MEMPHIS ESTIMATES THAT REFUGEES NUMBER 50,000 — BREAKING LEVEES SPREAD DEVASTATION.

Smashing down more levees, the lower Mississippi River, in its greatest and most damaging flood in history, is spreading out over greater area, and the stream continuing to rise slowly from the headwaters in Minnesota to the delta below New Orleans.

The rise at Cairo, the mouth of the Ohio River, is expected to continue till Friday, when it will be stopped by a fall of the Ohio and the flow of water through the numerous new levee breaks below Cairo. Above Cairo, and in the vicinity of St. Louis, the rise will continue till next week, going higher than had been anticipated because of heavy rains that have augmented the flood of the Missouri River and because of an increase in the Illinois River flood.

Heavy rains in the last two days in Eastern Kansas and Northern Missouri brought the rise in the Middle West.

Although the forecast of the crest in the Lower Mississippi is not being revised upwards, the situation there is growing more serious because of the spread through levees that cannot hold against the onslaught of current and waves. The large list of homeless refugees is being increased by thousands, and property damage and resultant losses is mounting by millions of dollars. After a week of the flood, apprehension of residents of the valley is increasing instead of diminishing. The crest will not reach the southern end of the river till late next month. Meanwhile, flooded tributaries, still pouring out their waters from a large slice of the Middle West.

Miss Mackaye admitted Kelly had talked to her of marriage in case she divorced Raymond.

"But it was so remote that I didn't even think about it," she said.

In a statement to police, told of the fight with Raymond and frankly professed to be in love with the actor's wife.

Loses Life But Saves Pupils. Leaving roads blocked with fallen trees and men and women buried in the debris, the squall struck next in Greene County, at the Centerville district school, a brick building three miles west of Carrollton. Miss Anna Keller, the 25-year-old teacher, was killed when the building collapsed.

Observing the approaching storm, Miss Keller ordered her 18 pupils to crawl under the seats and benches and had taken refuge under a desk, when two panic stricken children darted for the door. She caught them, pushed them again under a bench and was running for her desk when the squall arrived. The building collapsed and she was crushed to under a heap of bricks. Only one pupil was badly hurt. William Thomas, a Missouri Pacific train, due here at 11:30 a.m. yesterday from Texas, arrived at 10:02 a.m. today.

A Katy train, due at 8 a.m. yesterday, arrived from San Antonio at 8:45 a.m. today. Katy train No. 6, due at 8 a.m. today and the "Texas Special," due at 11:30 a.m., were marked seven hours late.

Trains to the North and East are, in some instances, delayed to Union Station for the arrival of trains from the stricken area. Otherwise service on the lines is normal.

Missouri Pacific Tracks Flooded.

The Missouri Pacific is not running any train between Poplar Bluff and Little Rock, flood waters having overflowed their tracks to varying depths throughout this territory. A local No. 3, left Union Station today for Poplar Bluff. It tried to penetrate the section beyond there yesterday, but failed, being forced to return to St. Louis late at night with passengers for points beyond Poplar Bluff.

A Missouri Pacific train between St. Louis and Colorado is marooned near Osawatomie, Kan., as a result of a flood of the Potawatonia River there, waters of which are standing four feet deep on the tracks. The water is expected to recede this afternoon, permitting resumption of traffic.

A local passenger train left Union Station this morning for Memphis, but officials feared it might be forced to return, as flood waters at a point near New Madrid, Mo., where St. John's levee broke at 2 a.m. today, are expected to reach the railroads track. Whether the train is able to return to Memphis, the trip depends on the depth of the water on the tracks near the levee break. The train made the journey yesterday, plowing through 51 inches of water in Cape Girardeau at a snail's pace.

White River Levee Breaks. The Cotton Belt was forced to discontinue all trains from St. Louis to Fort Worth via Ilmo, Mo., today, when a White River levee at Clarendon, Ark., broke, flooding tracks with water six inches to four feet deep for about five miles. Branch lines between Bird's Point and Malden, Mo., and Blytheville and Paragould, Ark., have not been in operation for several days.

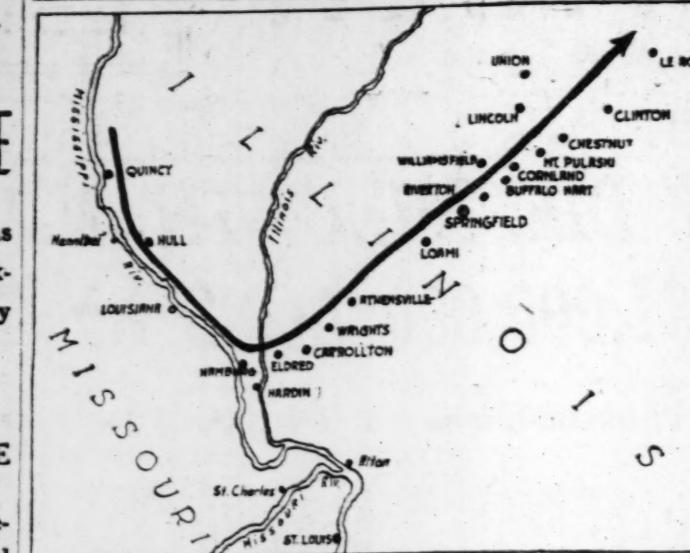

Service on the main line between Kansas City and Texas, from St. Louis to Texas was suspended yesterday after a two-hour interruption, during which detours were made in both directions.

On the K-3 was City division of the Katy, trains were being detoured between Kansas City and Blytheville, Kan., because of a flood of the Marie C. & Cycles River at Bangs, Kan.

Service between Murphysboro, Ill., and Casey, Ky., has been discontinued over the Mobile & Ohio because of flooded tracks at Pomeroy, Mo. The K-3 through trains to Mobile are being detoured over Illinois Central tracks between Murphysboro and Rives, Tenn.

The "Chickasaw," Illinois Central's crack train between here and Memphis and the "Panama Limited," St. Louis to New Orleans, are running, with no prospect of discontinuing despite the threat of a further rise in the river or a levee break. A Cairo, a division point of the Illinois Central. The two trains arrived at Union Station resulted.

CRONIES, 68 AND 70, RECONCILED IN COURT

Judge Patches Up Quarrel Caused by Home Brew, Candy and Baseball Bat.

A canary, a baseball bat and an indefinite quantity of home brew combined in bringing into Police Court yesterday two friends aged 68 and 70, respectively, charged with disturbance of each other's peace.

Apparently again at peace with the world and each other, Theodore Siebelbeuer, 213 Soulard street, and Peter J. Langelle, 2329 Missouri avenue, aired their troubles before Judge Rosecan.

"Do you want to prosecute Siebelbeuer?" Langelle was asked.

"Well, Judge, he hit me with a bat."

Talked About Canary.

On the witness stand, Langelle explained he had gone to his friend's house for a little visit. He said they had been discussing Siebelbeuer.

"What did you say about the canary to make him hit you?" asked Judge Rosecan.

"Nothing, your honor. I said it was a good singer."

"All right, then, who brought out the home brew?"

"He did, but we didn't drink so very much."

"Just enough to make you feel good?" "Yes."

Both Sent Home.

Siebelbeuer, called to the stand, was admonished to tell the truth about the affair.

"I tell the truth, I'm honest," he said. "I don't remember anything that happened."

"Isn't this man your friend?"

"The best I've got."

"And yet you hit him over the head with a baseball bat? All right, go home, both of you and don't come back."

They walked out of court arm in arm.

DECLARER WOMAN OFFERED HIM HER HAND AND $30,000

Peter William Fuchs, 37, testifies for himself in Mrs. Carrie L. Wythe's Recovery Suit.

SHE SAYS HE WAS ONLY A CHAUFFEUR

Denies She Promised to Marry Him — Declares
He Took Other Women
Riding in Her Automobile

Peter William Fuchs, 37 years old, once a poor misunderstood boy in the eyes of Mrs. Carrie L. Wythe, 47, a widow, of 3615 South Compton avenue, testified today in suit to recover $30,000 worth of property which she transferred to him a year ago when their relations were cordial.

Mrs. Wythe felt "sorry" for him, she testified yesterday. Everybody seemed to be "down" on him and he could not find employment. She met him at the home of one of her tenants and invited him to call. "Anybody who is honest," she declared, "is welcome in my home."

Fuchs called a few days later. He called again. Soon he was calling every day and remaining for dinner. After dinner he would drive her car and burn her gasoline without inviting her to go along. She did not know then, she testified, that he was taking other women riding.

He painted her garage, washed her woodwork, sowed grass seed and was generally useful.

Transferred Property to Him.

She considered setting him up in the grocery business and finally, to prove her confidence in him, agreed to sign over her property to him if he would sign over securities of a similar value to her. The transfers were made, but merchants and bankers, who are thinking about loss of crop revenue next autumn.

More than 400 cars of refugees were moved to safety over the Missouri Pacific Railroad in Eastern Missouri and Arkansas, loading nearly as many more cars in the vicinity of Wynne and Marion, Ark.

Cape Girardeau, Mo., where trains have been running with passengers up to the car floors, had a river stage of 40 feet today, and the prediction was for six inches higher.

Breaking Levee Greatly Increase Damake Done by Flood.

New levee breaks yesterday and today carried the flood waters over additional broad areas of Southeastern Missouri and Arkansas, greatly increasing the property damage and the number of refugees.

Yesterday, a St. Francis River levee, five miles south of Madrid, Mo., which is west of New Madrid, broke, and much farm land was submerged. Through service on the Cotton Belt Railway was stopped as a result.

Another break yesterday occurred in a White River levee near Clarendon, Ark., southwest of the St. Francis flood area, from which the White is separated by several miles.

She denied indignantly that she had promised to marry Fuchs upon their arrival in California. He was nothing more to her than a friend and a chauffeur, she having paid for his chauffeur's license before they left St. Louis.

Mrs. Wythe broke down and cried while on the stand. She referred sarcastically to Fuchs, seated in the courtroom, as "the gentleman over there." He is tall and thin; she is stout. "I thought he was on the level, which he ain't," she said.

Admits Friends Warned Her.

"Did your friends warn you that he was a bad man?" she was asked. "Yes, and now I know he is a bad man—rotten, I mean," she corrected.

Fuchs, twice married and divorced, followed her on the stand before Circuit Judge Hartmann.

"She said she wanted somebody to help her in her business transactions," he testified. "Then she said me if I intended to get married, I said I expected to. She said, 'What about us getting married, and I can start you up in business?'" I told her I had no objections. I told her I didn't have much of anything. She said, 'Well, I had plenty of money.' She said, 'Well, buy a car and go to California and get married.'

Fuchs, who lives at 215 West Schermer street, had sued for $25,000 damages, alleging she jilted him when they got to California. This suit has been dismissed.

Chemist Now Requires Two Quarts of Blood Daily and Volunteers Are Sought.

DALLAS, Tex., April 20.—After 42 blood transfusions in six months, Travis H. Smythe, 26-year-old chemist of Thornton, Tex., is keeping up his fight for life in Baylor Hospital by having almost two quarts of new blood pumped into his veins daily. The blood is used to replenish the vitality that is slowly ebbing away in his body caused, he thinks, by benzene poisoning contracted by inhalation in the oil refinery laboratory where he was employed.

Gladys Smythe, his sister, 28, has submitted to 15 transfusions sometimes giving three pints of her blood a day, and three transfusions a week. Also, her 19-year-old brother, Alvin Smythe, has been staying at Fourche bottom, Pulaski County. He said refugees were clinging to church steeples and treetops in Arkansas.

Fort Smith, Ark., lost its telephone and telegraph connections for several hours yesterday, when poles collapsed in the rain-soaked grounds.

The Arkansas River, rose to new heights south of Pine Bluff last night, and were entertained regarding the ability of the levees to hold at least three points. Special trains were rushed from Pine Bluff to carry sacks to reinforce the weakening dikes.

Man, 70, Injured by Fall, Dies.

August Radler, 70 years old, a retired merchant of Collinsville, Ill., died at St. Mary's Hospital, East St. Louis, at 3 p. m. yesterday of injuries suffered last Monday, when he fell downstairs at his home in Collinsville.

Now, with physicians almost despairing of saving Smythe's life, volunteers have been called to the hospital to replace the exhausted friends and relatives in supplying two transfusions daily.

The disease, not a rare one among oil refinery workers, affects the spleen and other organs, causing anemia, until the blood is so much that it escapes in hemorrhages of the gums, nose and intestines.

way from Kansas City to St. Louis, Kansas City having a stage of 24 feet, two above flood mark, steadily, but is not expected to be quite so high as it was last October.

A bad flood is in the making in the Grand River, in North-Central Missouri, which will affect the Mississippi, Chillicothe, with flood stage of 15 feet, had 27.2 today, and will pass 30 by Friday. Hermann, Mo., on the Missouri, had 25.8 feet, 4.8 above flood stage, today, and will have 27.5 by Saturday.

The Illinois River is rising steadily, but is not expected to be quite so high as it was last October.

Uncertainty of train service which has been interrupted and either partly or wholly suspended on all the roads close to the Mississippi south of St. Louis, has hampered the shipment of supplies to refugee camps. Incidentally, it has disrupted the Southern League baseball schedule. The trouble of the railroads is growing worse and more highway traffic being flooded. Telegraph and telephone lines, where they are not broken, are congested with traffic.

The tremendous damage to farms of seven or more states is beginning to cause apprehension of serious economic difficulties, involving not only the farmers, but merchants and bankers, who are thinking about loss of crop revenue next autumn.

Clarence W. Morganstern, manager of the production, and James A. Neary, are serving 10-day sentences in the prison.

Shortly before the prison was opened, Miss West sent an answer to a keeper to the written questions of persons who inquired how she felt and how she had enjoyed her first night in prison.

"Not so bad," wrote the actress. "The inmates were very interesting. Will have enough material for 10 shows. I didn't think so much of the bed."

Keepers reported Miss West passed a restful night, and ate a hearty breakfast.

Prison clothes will be handed to the actress at the workhouse. Besides the 10-day sentence, Miss West and Neary were fined $10.

Nineteen others of the cast were given suspended sentences.

MONKEY EXHIBITED AT TRIAL FOR CRUELTY TO ANIMAL

A monkey, known as "Barney Oldfield" because of its feats on a miniature speedway of a carnival company showing at Kingshighway No. 40 and heavy traffic that have been stopped. Twenty-five farmers residing on the 2000-acre strip northwest of Granite City, known as Chouteau Island, moved their families, livestock and goods to higher ground today in fear of a break in the levee along the Mississippi. They have been trying for three days to stop leaks with sandbags.

Four Inches of Rain in Four Hours at Little Rock, Ark.

By the Associated Press.
LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 20.—The heaviest rainfall for months occurred here today. Within four hours 4.04 inches had fallen. Many parts of the city were flooded. Because of the record high stage of the Arkansas River, the water could not flow off.

250 Flood Refugees in Camp Have Measles.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 20.—An epidemic of measles, mumps and whooping cough has broken out in flood refugee camps at Wynne and Parkin, Ark. There were said to be 250 cases each of measles and whooping cough and 50 to 75 cases of mumps.

The defendant, Charles De Kreko, monkey trainer and operator of the speedway, told the court that Barney was not "obviously in terror" as had been claimed by Robert F. Sollars, executive secretary of the Humane Society of Missouri, who caused De Kreko's arrest Monday after watching four monkeys, including Barney, ride top electric automobiles around the speedway.

Judge Beck took the case under advisement until May 26.

How Newman Made a Million in Kansas City

first mortgage bonds and the collateral gold notes were sustained, the court, Dec. 30, 1924, upholding the first mortgage bonds and the collateral gold notes. May 15, 1925, the decree of foreclosure was entered, and the property was sold under it, being purchased by the Kansas City Public Service Co., which had been created in the meantime.

The necessity confronting the re-organizers was to provide a plan under which the indebtedness of the company could be met by the income and a sufficient amount remain to provide an earning for the stockholders. This required the elimination of certain indebtedness, or, in other words, the absolute wiping out of a considerable part of the securities of the old company.

Second Mortgage Valueless.

It was the contention of Newman and the other members of the re-organization committee that the second mortgage bonds ($4,924,000) and some other indebtedness would have no actual property value behind them after the first mortgage bonds and the collateral gold notes should be redeemed.

The court's decree, upholding their contention, constituted a complete approval of the plan of re-organization, and the plan was carried out.

In the new company provision was made for the issuance of $15,174,000 of first mortgage bonds of the old company, there was issued in the new company $400 in bonds, three shares of preferred stock and seven shares of common stock. For each $1000 of the $1,000,000 of 6 per cent notes there was issued $107.84 in bonds, 4,264 shares of preferred stock and 7.824 shares of common stock. For each $1000 of the $1,000,000 of 6 per cent notes there was issued $107.84 in bonds, 4,264 shares of preferred stock and 7.824 shares of common stock. For each $1000 of the $1,000,000 of 7 per cent notes there was issued $521.60 in bonds, 3,912 shares of preferred stock and 7.824 shares of common stock. For each $1000 of one lot of $200,000 of promissory notes there was issued $568.50 in bonds, 4,264 shares of preferred stock and 8,125 shares of common stock. For each $1000 of another lot of $200,000 of secured promissory notes there was issued $521.50 in bonds, 3,912 shares of preferred stock and 7.824 shares of common stock.

No Agreement on Value.

The new securities had a pre-determined value based upon an agreed capitalization on the basis of the company's earnings were to be permitted. In negotiations with the city there had been a failure to agree upon the valuation of the physical property as a basis for the cost of Newman's secured promissory notes.

Estimate of Newman's Profit.

Newman's capital profit in the reorganization is estimated at more than $1,300,000. His holding in the old company, par value $1,900,000, cost him approximately $1,000,000, taking Woolfolk's testimony into account, and for these he received securities and stock in the new company of an estimated value of $2,113,501. This is on the theory that the bonds are worth 100, the preferred stock 100 and the common stock 50, and they are presumably worth those amounts in view of the 30 year franchise authorizing an 8 per cent return on $25,000,000.

One item which must be considered in connection with Newman's profit and which cannot be shown exactly is the interest he lost on his investment in the securities of the old company during the receivership, the time of which was four years.

However, his capital enhancement was $1,300,000, and his interest return from securities in the new company will amount to 11 per cent plus on his cash investment, at which rate such interest losses as he had previously suffered soon would be overcome.

In addition to the physical plant which the new company took over from the old, it obtained more than $5,000,000 in cash which had accumulated during the receivership and which the receivers held instead of paying it out in interest to the bondholders. Of this $1,300,000 was used as part payment on the damage suit judgments, and provision was made for the remainder to go to improvements in the property, adding that to its physical value.

The Franchise Negotiations.

With their plan approved by the court, the re-organizers turned attention to obtaining from the city a new franchise. The old franchise still had 18 years to run, but the Newman committee argued that financing of the new company virtually would be impossible unless it had a new 30-year franchise.

They faced a political situation in which the Democrats were in a bare majority in the City Council, having wrested control of the municipal government from the Republicans and being in the first administration of the city's affairs under a new charter providing a city manager form of government.

The Democrats held only a few of the county offices and wanted more. The franchise was asked for in the summer preceding the November, 1926, election, at which these offices would be filled. The Pendleton faction, in control in the Democratic organization in Jackson County, doubted that espousal of the franchise would be popular enough with the public to warrant it and mean loss of the election.

So they opposed the franchise, as did also Mayor Beach, a Republican, and his party associates.

The re-organizers, besides being faced with this adverse political situation, had the big problem of the damage suit judgments to solve. About 80 per cent of these claims, the total of which was $2,700,000, had come into the hands of United States Senator Reed's law firm for collection. Reed's firm was not agreeable to an offered settlement on a 30 per cent basis and, according to statements made by a Kansas City lawyer, Reed went to Chicago to attend a meeting of the Re-organizer Committee.

Mass Meeting Threatened.

The re-organizers evidenced no inclination to confer with the Senator, and kept him waiting in the outer office, which greatly exasperated him. He is said to have informed an employee in the office that he was departing for Kansas City, and that it was his intention to "call a mass meeting" of all the holders of damage suit judgments, all those who had been crippled in street car accidents.

There was a lot of skirmishing around that office, and it was not long until the Senator was with the committee, and not long after that until he had an agreement that the damage claims were to be paid in full, 80 per cent cash and 20 per cent bonds of the new company, when due.

Although there never has been any direct showing of participation by the re-organizers in Kansas City politics, it was noticeable that a few weeks before the November election, the street car company started in to make extensive improvements, and hundreds of men were put to work. It was said that most of them came from the north end wards, where the Democrats have political control.

It was noted that the more than 3000 employees of the street car company voted the Democratic ticket. At least there was a Democratic landslide in the election, and the politicians could see no other explanation for it than street car interest.

Other Evidence of Influence.

Then, too, the Democrats had an unusually large campaign fund. In their statement it was announced for $116,000 of contributions, which is much more than they had had in any previous election. Party officials and street railway officials denied that the company or the re-organizers had made any political contributions.

While the political campaign was progressing, the re-organizers' campaign for the franchise was being pushed before the Council. There were many committee hearings with the Council, holding off a vote on the franchise, and without advance notice that action was to be taken, the franchise was called up one night a month before the election, and with the five Democrats voting for it and the four Republicans against it, an extension of 12 years for the life of the old franchise was passed.

Mayor Beach and the Republicans immediately began the circulation of referendum petitions for a submission of the franchise to a vote of the people. President Woolfolk of the new company said the 12 year extension would do temporarily, but that a real new franchise was needed.

Reconciled to Fares.

Residents of Kansas City are rather settled to the idea that there is little hope of a reduction in the fare, and the company has been in effect since Aug. 4, 1919, during the life of the franchise; though the city is not barred from appealing to the Public Service Commission for a reduction. In fact there is a provision in the franchise for a reduction whenever the earnings above operating expenses shall exceed by $100,000 the amount required for an earning of 8 per cent on $25,000,000 plus an earning of 8 per cent on any new money invested in betterments or extensions. Through the sale of books of tickets the reduction provided would be one-sixth of one cent.

If the scheme works out as the promoters hope, Newman, the professional guiding genius, will have his $1,300,000 of capital profit and his annual income of $214,000 from his securities and the other who got in "on the ground floor" with him will share his good fortune proportionately.

The holders of the $4,924,000 of second mortgage bonds, of $100,000 of capital stock, the $1,757,000 of unsecured promissory notes and the $1,000,000 of secured claims, will have the memory that they lost whatever investments cost unless through future litigation they can obtain payment of some part.

E. ST. LOUIS COMBINE PICKS CITY OFFICES

Mayor Doyle, Conors and Zierath Take Over Finance, Police and Street Departments.

City departments and powers were apportioned to the newly elected commissioners of East St. Louis, as was done yesterday, that denotes a combination composed of Mayor Frank Doyle and Commissioners John T. Connors and Herman E. Zierath. This combination took all the important departments and assigned minor powers and departments to Commissioners John J. Hallinan and Albert P. Lauman.

The statute creates five departments under the commission form of government, stipulating that the Mayor shall be Commissioner of Public Affairs, and that one commissioner shall be made head of each of the other four departments. It also provides that the commissioners may by ordinance require an officer to perform duties in two or more departments.

With the support of Commissioners Connors and Zierath, Mayor Doyle took for himself the Department of Public Affairs and Department of Accounts and Finance. Commissioner Connors, who formerly was Commissioner of Public Health, was given the Department of Streets and Public Improvements. Commissioner Zierath was given the Police and Fire Departments. Commissioner Lauman, the Department of Public Health, and Commissioner Hallinan got what was left. Commissioner of Public Buildings, which practically amounts to no more than supervision of janitors.

Commenting on the assignments Hallinan said he voted against giving Mayor Doyle the Department of Accounts and Finance, because he had been led to believe that would be his department. He had been in this department as city clerk for eight years, and was elected on his record.

"This assignment most likely would have been given me," said Hallinan, "but for the fact that I opposed the appointment of Frank Taylor, son-in-law of E. Fred Gerold, as City Clerk. I told the other Commissioners that I feared the influence in the Department of Accounts and Finance of Gerold, who personally had called on me to support his son-in-law for City Clerk. This I refused to do, and so the department was not assigned to me."

Gerold was City Treasurer of East St. Louis in 1911-12. In 1914 he was found guilty by a jury in the East St. Louis City Court of withholding city funds as Treasurer and given a sentence of one to 10 years in the penitentiary. The Supreme Court reversed the case, which was not again brought to trial. The city still carries on its books a charge of $24,740.80 against Gerold.

In the retiring administration, the distribution of duties to the commissioners was fairly even. Mayor M. M. Stephens had the Police Department, and each of the other commissioners had a major department.

In the recent election Gerold, who has considerable political influence, supported Doyle for mayor.

ADVERTISEMENT INDIGESTION FROM OVER-EATING

Thedford's Black-Draught a Dependable Medicine in Bringing Up Family of Children, Says Florida Mother.

Jasper, Fla.—"In bringing up a family of young children," says Mrs. E. G. Green, of this place, "it is necessary to have on hand some reliable medicine which will give quick relief in cases of over-eating and digestive disorders. I have found that Thedford's Black-Draught can always be depended upon. We could hardly live without it."

"I was troubled with bad spells of sick headache. Sometimes I would have to go to bed for hours. Everything would get black before my eyes and I would feel dizzy and dull. A friend told me about Black-Draught, and that is how I began to use it, for myself and in my family."

"Since the first time I took it, about twelve years ago, I have tried to keep a stock of it always in the house. I get over a bad spell of indigestion quickly after taking it and find immediate relief from constipation."

"Once, one of my children, a little girl of three, was suffering from an acute attack of indigestion. I gave her a dose of Black-Draught and she was soon all right again."

"I can heartily recommend Black-Draught as a reliable medicine."

In use over 85 years.

DR. JOHN H. SIMON SUED BY MAN AND WIFE FOR $15,000

Physician Accused by Mrs. John F. Engler of Pushing Her Through Doorway.

Two suits asking for a total of $15,000 were filed in Circuit Court yesterday against Dr. John H. Simon, 1201 McCausland avenue, Democratic nominee for Mayor in 1912, and Mr. and Mrs. John F. Engler. Mrs. Engler asks for $12,000, alleging that she suffered injuries as a result of Dr. Simon's "angrily and in a brutal manner, grasping her violently by the neck and arm to push her through doorway," on April 21, 1925.

At the same time, she avers, the doctor threatened to strike her, frightening her. Her petition states that her neck and shoulders were bruised, her left arm was twisted, her back wrenched and her nervous system shocked. Her husband asks for $3000 on account of the loss of his wife's companionship and services during the time she was suffering from the injuries and for the expenses of her illness.

Dr. Simon could not be reached.

GREEKIAN PLOT RUMORS DENIED

Minister of Marine Says There Is No Disloyalty in Army or Navy.

By the Associated Press.

ATHENS, April 20.—Rumors which developed overnight of a conspiracy by naval and military officers in behalf of the former dictator, Pangalos, were denied today by Minister of Marine Canaris. He described the idea of any disloyalty in the army and navy.

In connection with the rumors, the newspapers printed copies of letters alleged to have been written by Pangalos from Fort Izeddin, on the island of Crete, claiming the forces of Crete were on his side in a plan to overthrow the Government.

FIVE PLEAD GUILTY OF COUNTERFEIT SCHEME

Members of $290,000 Conspiracy Will Be Sentenced in Federal Court May 4.

Five men involved in a $290,000 counterfeiting scheme pleaded guilty today before Federal Judge George W. Vasiloff, and will be sentenced to prison May 4. Pleas were entered on two counts charging printing and possession of counterfeit $20 Federal reserve bills, and a third count, charging possession of plates for the printing, was dismissed. The maximum sentence on each count is 15 years.

Those who pleaded guilty, throwing themselves upon the mercy of the Court, are Eugene Poole and George W. McKay, photographers who operated the Alexandria Studio, 709 Washington avenue; Walter Frank Blocker, Negro, proprietor of the Great Western Printing Co., 7 North Twenty-third street; Sam Troubridge, a Negro, employed there; and Louis A. Pascow, proprietor of a restaurant on Jefferson avenue. Sentence was deferred to permit Poole, McKay, Blocker and Pascow to dispose of their businesses.

Charges against a sixth defendant, Max Vasloff, partner owner of the Carlton Hotel, 1692 Market street, were dismissed. Vasloff smiled broadly, but his smile faded away when he was taken into custody outside the courtroom on an order calling for his deportation as an undesirable citizen. He is an alien.

A seventh defendant, Guy Geris, has not been apprehended.

Blocker and the others were arrested in a series of raids last Jan. 27. Blocker confessed printing the counterfeits and implicated the others.

The plates from which the spurious currency was printed had been produced by John H. Mayes, who was arrested last Sunday at Murphysboro, Ill., after a year's search. Mayes also produced plates for Cal Morgan's counterfeiting ring at Universal, Ind. Morgan and his men are now in Leavenworth prison. Mayes received his education in photo-engraving under Government auspices while a vocational training student. He is a disabled war veteran.

NATIONAL CHILD HEALTH DAY TO BE OBSERVED IN ST. LOUIS

Chamber of Commerce Luncheon and School Exercises Set for Wednesday, May 4.

Plans for observing Wednesday, May 4, as Child Health day in St. Louis were outlined yesterday morning in the Chamber of Commerce yesterday afternoon of representatives of the welfare, health and civic organizations of the city.

Decision was reached at the meeting, under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, League of Women Voters and others, to hold a luncheon celebration in the chamber, at which the progress in child health work will be exhibited. Various organizations have been invited to the meeting, which will be addressed by Dr. James C. Stewart of the State Board of Health; Mrs. George C. Mangold, president of the League of Women Voters, and others. Plans have been instituted for conducting child health work in the schools that day.

The local observance will be part of a nation wide plan to observe the day, sponsored by the American Child Health Association, of which Mrs. Herbert Hoover, wife of the Commerce Secretary, is president.

$200,000 Breach of Promise Suit.

NEW YORK, April 29.—James W. Brainerd, described as a wealthy steel magnate of Trumbull County, O., has been sued by Ethel Mary Schiller for breach of promise. She demands $250,000 damages, $150,000 for the alleged breach of promise and $100,000 punitive damages. The complainant says that Miss Schiller became engaged to Brainerd in June, 1926, and that he later told her that he would never marry her.

Can you afford to neglect this warning given by the dental profession?

THE DANGER LINE
Milk of Magnesia
neutralizes acids in the mouth of Milk of Magnesia.

These statements eliminate all possible doubt on the correct way to protect the teeth and gums.

Squibb's Dental Cream, because it is made with more than 50% of Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, can do this. Each time you brush your teeth, tiny particles of the Milk of Magnesia are forced into all the pits and crevices where acids can form. There they remain for a long while, neutralizing any acids that may form.

Squibb's Dental Cream cleans thoroughly—relieves sensitive teeth and sore gums. Contains no harsh grit or abrasive.

Squibb's Dental Cream is on sale at all druggists—40c a large tube.

C. & O. APPROVES TRIPLE MERGER

Stockholders Vote to Purchase Shares of Erie and Pere Marquette Railroads.

By the Associated Press.
RICHMOND, Va., April 20.—Purchase of the Erie and the Pere Marquette Railroads was authorized at a meeting of Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad stockholders yesterday.

The purchase had been recommended by the Chesapeake & Ohio directors, and approval is being sought of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Simultaneously with the favorable vote on acquisition of the Erie and the C. & O., the C. & O. rejected a minority report which in effect would have prevented the purchase. The report called for appointment of independent counsel to file a suit against O. P. and M. J. Van Sweringen and other directors of the Chesapeake & Ohio, to require of them a "complete, full and accurate accounting" of the financial and other operations of the company from Jan. 1, 1923, to the present.

The vote to purchase was $10,437 for and 125,498 against.

Under the plan of the proposed consolidation, the Chesapeake & Ohio would purchase stock of the Erie and Pere Marquette, in order to provide a wider gateway and better outlet for the Chesapeake & Ohio's business. Speakers supporting the minority protest concentrated their attack upon the financial structure of the Erie, declaring that road "a menace, a danger and a speculation."

President Harahan of the Chesapeake & Ohio replied at length detailing the reasons why the board of directors devised the plan to absorb the two lines.

"They were the only two logical railroads for our purposes which have already been taken in by the great systems," he told the stockholders, "and purchase of them is necessary to our expansion program. After a while the Chesapeake would find itself alone, surrounded by antagonistic lines, and it to forestall this eventuality that the merger is contemplated."

The minority stockholders protested against the voting of stock standing in the name of O. P. Van Sweringen, M. J. Van Sweringen, the Van Sweringen Company of Ohio, or stock held on behalf of them.

The three railroads concerned figured in the Nickel Plate merger which the Van Sweringens attempted to effect some time ago, but which was disapproved by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

BRINGS BACK NEW

VARIETIES OF ORCHIDS FOR SHAW'S GARDEN

orchid-hunters' paradise. Guterrie told me he had never seen the Chinala, but fortunately he was making a new clearing for coffee planting.

"Hunter had a touch of dysentery—malady that later was to cost me 10 pounds in four days—so we made him comfortable and I set off with a guide to the clearing. It was a paradise. In two hours of searching the newly fallen trees, our three sacks were full of rarities, and no Chinala. I crawled out on a tree for an umbrella, and there was one, and there was the Chinala. The surprise put Hunter on his feet, and in another hour we had 20 of the largest."

Another trip to another coffee-plantation netted 25 more of the Chinala discovered in 1885 but the hardest orchid to propagate known, and now without a representative in this country. It has wing-petals 18 inches across, and sometimes is called the "elephant's foot." The trees were taken back to Boquete and placed in a shed. The doors barred against the cows of their host, Joseph Wright. One morning they found the doors open and 12 of the finest varieties gone, but they were replaced in later hunts.

Two of their three principal objectives had been reached. There remained the third, the white swan orchid, bearing a curving neck like the swan of old. An American told them of finding it at Caldera, four hours upstream from Boquete, and so, before their hunt closed with a long ride to the extinct volcano which Firing, worn then by dysentery, called, "The hardest ride I've ever taken," there came the meeting with "Grandma."

"There was a husband, a young wife, two children and countless pigs, dogs and chickens in that family, but 'Grandma' was its name. Poorly she limped. 'She said she didn't know old she was, because the padre had lost the book, but she was plenty old.' She prepared us a chicken dinner at her outdoor kitchen, a two-foot shield of rock against the wind, and served it at a table outside, while four lean and hungry dogs ran between our legs and fought for the bones with a half dozen pigs."

"She took one end of an L-shaped plank bed while Hunter and the guide took the other, set up a folding camp cot, home-made and four feet high, lay me, and let the rest of the family drink a cowhide for a pallet on the floor."

"Next morning, to my surprise, Hunter's keen eyes found a swan orchid just outside the hut. The husband said there were lots of 'em but as usual with the natives there were many in advance, but few when it came to the actual search. However, we found about a dozen in about three hours."

"Meantime Grandma got wise to what we were after, and she hikes out. We had scarcely returned before the 6-year-old boy, whom she had sent off, comes in with another, and in a moment here came Grandmen I've ever seen."

With the best swan orchid spec-

men I've ever seen."

EQUALIZATION BOARD MAKES

$365,400 ASSESSMENT CUTS
Charles Kratz Gets $30,000 Realty Reduction
One of $20,000.

Two of the large cuts made by the City Board of Equalization in assessments on real estate became known today. The session of the board were executive. The total of cuts made, after hearing 92 appeals, was $365,400.

Charles Kratz, as head of the Kratz Real Estate and Investment Co., obtained a reduction of $30,000 in the assessment on the apartment building at 4432 Washington boulevard.

Henri Chouteau, who was Republican candidate for Congress in the Eleventh District last fall, obtained a reduction from $45,000 to $25,000 in the assessment of building property owned by him at Fourteenth and Chambers streets, a former brewery property.

Butler Bros. sought a reduction of the assessment on its building, covering the city block of Eighteenth, Seventeenth, Olive and Locust streets, from $2,027,400, the Assessor's figure. The company brought testimony that it bought the property last July for $1,625,000. The Board of Equalization decided the company was fortunate to get the property at such a price and did not change the assessment.

ELECTRIC SERVICE RESTORED
NEARLY TO NORMAL IN ST. LOUIS

Break in Keokuk Dam Transmission Line by Wind Will Be Repaired by Tomorrow

With a few moments' normal electric service was in force here today, with the United Railways and the Union Electric Co. reporting a rapid return to full efficiency. The break in the Keokuk Dam-St. Louis power transmission lines, caused by the windstorm at noon yesterday opposite Elsberry, Mo., on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River, will be repaired by noon tomorrow.

The Union Electric at noon today reported that about 15 industries here had been affected by the break, but full service was now provided to all but a few, who must wait until tomorrow noon for restoration of the electric power.

The United Railways stated that all its lines were in almost completed operation, only a few cars on each line being withheld. Yesterday afternoon the St. Louis County lines of the United Railways were shut down until 5 p.m. and during the rush hour service on all its lines was only about half or two-thirds normal. Hundreds of office workers in the downtown district were delayed in getting home and many walked.

SUBSTITUTION OF SIGNALS

FOR CROSSING GATES SOUGHT

Missouri Pacific's Requests, Opposed by City, Taken Under Advisement.

Commissioner Inn of the State Public Service Commission conducted a hearing at City Hall today on the application of the Missouri Pacific Railroad for permission to substitute warning bells and signal lights for the present watchmen and gates at its grade crossings on Virginia, Michigan, Minnesota and Pennsylvania avenues.

An average of 48 trains cross these streets daily. Peter F. Gault, signal engineer, and C. A. Clements, terminals superintendent, of the Missouri Pacific, testified the bells and lights are in general use throughout the country, and are considered safer than the gate system. The city's traffic engineer, Reyburn Hoffman, is opposing the change, on the ground that the gate system is safer. The application was taken under advisement.

MEXICAN OUTLAW MURDERS

FEDERAL PEACE NEGOTIATOR

Tenorio in Vera Cruz Kills Capt. Cantu When Refusal $3000; Campaign Renewed.

MEXICO CITY, April 20.—Refusal of the Mexican Government to pay him 6000 pesos ($3000) to surrender resulted in the breaking off of peace parleys by Vidal Tenorio, outlaw leader in the State of Vera Cruz, and the killing of Capt. Manuel Flores Cantu, who had gone to the outlaw's hiding place to continue negotiations. Tenorio demanded $3000 and a money bonus for all his men. The murder of Capt. Cantu caused the military authorities to issue orders to renew the campaign against Tenorio and his band.

Secretary of War Amaro has returned to Jalisco, after a brief visit at the capital, to take personal charge of Federal operations against rebel groups there. The War Department announced that Federal forces had been successful in several clashes with rebels in Colima and that numerous rebels were killed and wounded.

A War Department spokesman declared today that the Government had sufficient troops along the border to quell any uprising.

1,314,566 DECREASE IN U. R. PASSENGERS IN THREE MONTHS

The report of the United Railways on passengers carried, cars operated and mileage, filed today with the City Registrar, shows a total of 63,571,705 passengers carried in the quarterly period ending March 31. This was a decrease of 1,314,566 as compared with the same period in 1926.

The cars made 1,452,970 trips and covered 9,428,218 miles. On week days the company operated an average of 1,402 cars on Saturdays 1,205 and Sundays 594. More trips were made and more cars operated for a greater mileage in the quarter this year than in the same quarter last year.

THEOSOPHIST SHOWS FAIRY PHOTOGRAPHS

E. L. Gardner Lectures in St. Louis on Adventures Among Gnomes and Sprites.

E. L. Gardner, general secretary of the Theosophical Society in England, has been playing with the fairies. Not only that, but Gardner, who arrived at Hotel Coronado yesterday to lecture last night, has also given a lecture to the Theosophical Society, 3817 Olive street, exhibited photographs to prove it.

Some had wings and some had not. Some wore bobbed hair and the latest in wings and Paris gowns for fairies, and others were of an ancient style. That, Gardner explained, depended upon the thoughts of their human companions at the moment, or the traditional form "stamped upon them by the thoughts of generations past."

Actually the fairies were "bright, amorphous little clouds, pulsing just like a heart," and they out of the conventional notion of "ectoplasm, physical emanation of persons of a certain temperament, which the fairies delight to wear," only to be agreeable to their human playmates.

Gardner was not playing with the fairies he explained, so much as working with them. He had not seen them himself, but through the services of four clairvoyants, already had gone so far as to attempt classifying them.

Says Gnomes Are Root Builders.

For example, he said a gnome appearing in one picture had the function of building roots while a winged fairy, with bobbed hair, in another, was occupied above ground with leaves and blossoms. Others, he said, carved out the cellular structure of the wood. Besides all these there was the singular particular spirit of the tree or flower.

Briefly, his story was this:

In 1917, a Yorkshire girl and her cousin, chatted at the stories about fairies by the parents of the elder, begged her father's camera and in 10 minutes recorded with negatives showing her with fairies. The parents' seeing was redoubled and a bit serious, for they accused the children of faking the photograph. Two years later they heard of claims that fairies actually existed, and communicated with others to learn more about it. Gardner, collaborating with Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, investigated. Photographers to whom they showed negatives of fairy pictures said they could not have been faked by any known method. Then Gardner took marked negatives to the girls, and this time they made the photograph of the flapper fairy. Children Best Mediums.

The younger of the girls was found to be a materializing medium, Gardner explained. "Her body gave off the ectoplasm in which the fairies clothed themselves. She was 10 years old and the other girl 16 when the first photographs were made. Fairies appear often to children, who are more fanciful and spiritual. The year after this photograph of the fairy with bobbed hair had taken another attempt was unsuccessful. The younger girl was 14, and the fairies would not have anything to do with her ectoplasm."

FIVE YEARS' IMPRISONMENT FOR THEFT OF 40 CENTS

Ralph Benoit, 29, convicted by Jury of Robbing Alvin Stone, a Newsboy.

A jury in Circuit Judge Ossing's Court yesterday convicted Ralph Benoit, 29 years old, of 3826 Lincoln avenue, of robbing a newsboy of 40 cents Feb. 26 last, and fixed his punishment at five years' imprisonment in the penitentiary. Benoit did not testify but attempted to establish an alibi through testimony of another witness.

The defendant was identified by Alvin Stone, 14-year-old newsboy, as the man who robbed him of 40 cents at his newsstand at Albert and Easton avenues. Another witness, Victor P. Nelson of 4521 Newberry terrace, identified Benoit as the man whom he pushed from the running board of his automobile when it was taken away a few minutes after Stone was held up.

MISSISSIPPI ISLANDS AGAIN PUBLIC LANDS

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, April 20.—Islands in the Mississippi River south of Cairo, Ill., withdrawn from public entry in 1882, were opened up for disposal under the public land laws yesterday by the Interior Department.

From June 10 to Sept. 8, surveys of vacant and unreserved land on the islands will be subject to preferred right of entry by former service men of the World War and those having valid rights or equitable claims. After Aug. 20 the general public may file applications.

The islands were withdrawn from entry for use of the War Department in connection with improvement of navigation on the river.

of the Post-Dispatch Sport Staff
SPORTSMAN'S PARK, April 20.—Threatening skies likely to hold down the attendance greeted the world champion Cardinals when they took the field this afternoon to warm up for the flag-raising ceremonies and the opening game of their first stand at home.

The grandstand was decorated with American flags and there was a band on hand to entertain the early arrivals. Ceremonies were to be brief and simple, President Sam Breadon announced.

This is a big thing, the raising of a National League pennant," Breadon said. "This is the first time we have had a thing like this in 28 years. There was only a scattering of fans in the bleachers nad pavilion an hour before game time and a still smaller percentage of seats occupied than usual.

Players in Parade.

The program called for a march of the athletes just before the game with the players carrying an American flag and the National League pennant, which they won during the 1926 campaign. After carrying the flag and pennant to the flag pole, the athletes were to re-enter in pulling the rope that would hoist it to the top of the field to fly there each day at least until the close of the season.

The Cardinals engaged in a bat-ting practice with Al Sotroh and Gari Littlejohn serving the hitters. Sotroh, who had the honor of pitching the Cardinals into first place in the "little world series" with the Pirates last season, wore catcher's shin guards to protect him from the hot liners of the bats of his comrades. Littlejohn was not so careful, but he is younger and spry and escaped injury.

For the baseball game itself, Bill Sherel, the little left-hander, who lost a tough 1-0 decision to the Bruins in Chicago, will be on the hill for Bob O'Farrell, while Fred Melillo is due for the Browns.

The Cardinals returned to St. Louis this morning with a record of three victories and three defeats for their first road campaign as title-holders, and their performance in those six games showed the power and the weakness of the team.

Three games were won one at Chicago and two at Cincinnati. Jess Haines beat the Cubs 5 to 0 and the Reds 9 to 1, and Alexander tamed the Reds 2 to 1. In those three games the Cardinals played like the champions that they are. They fielded brilliantly, they had the punch sufficient to triumph and the pitching was excellent. This was the team that won the National League pennant in 1926.

On the other hand, the Cubs beat the Cardinals, with Alexander starting.

Boston Wins 3 Games in One Day; Ty Cobb Steals Home

Yankees Suffer First Defeat of Season and Koenig Makes His First Error—Phillies Continue to Win From Brooklyn.

By the Associated Press.

Boston's big league ball teams were delighted today over what they regarded as an excellent observance of the anniversary of the Deaths of Lexington and Concord.

It was a happy day for the down-trodden. There were those who shook their heads in doubt when the Athletics opened the season with a losing streak, but the old A's played ball yesterday to beat the Senators 3 to 1, although they were outhit. With a flash of the old time speed and daring, Ty Cobb came sliding home in the sixth with the final run on a triple steal.

Incidentally, the Huguenot broke a string of 45 straight innings without an error when Koenig stumbled a fast one for his own first bubble of the year.

The Braves were Giant-killers. As though once were not enough, they did it first in the morning, 5 to 3, and again in the afternoon, 6 to 5, and round a rousing celebration.

RIOT BREAKS UP URUGUAY'S GAME WITH BOSTON

Two Players and Two Women Spectators Hurt
Tour Will Continue, Consul Announces.

By the Associated Press.

MALDEN, Mass., April 20.—Two Boston players and two women who saw a game yesterday between the Olympic champion Uruguayan national soccer team and the Boston club of the American League were nursing injuries today as a result of a free-for-all fight.

A melee ensued when Scarone of the Uruguayan club struck Jock McArthur, a Boston back; 2000 of the 6000 fans joined the fray, and it took a squad of police to get the visitors into the clubhouse and away from the field.

The rioting ended in the second half when the score at 2-2, a foul was called against the spectators. Over their protests the referee awarded the Boston eleven a free try goal which resulted in making the score 3-2 in Boston's favor.

Thomas McMillan and Ernest Priestley, Boston players, were carried from the field unconscious from severe kicks.

Miss Grace Power of Arlington, a friend of Priestley, and her companion, Miss Henrietta Fulton of New York, who rushed to the field, were painfully injured.

Weather forecast—Fair and cooler.

Clayton Baseball Team Withdraws From Circuit

University City and Ferguson to Open County League Season Today.

Weather permitting, the County High School Baseball League will play its opening games this week, beginning this afternoon when University City and Ferguson meet at University City. Tomorrow, Ferguson will play Jennings at Jennings, and Friday Webster plays Roosevelt in a practice game, while Elsison, last year's champion, plays against Normandy, at Wells.

Lack of a practice grounds has caused Clayton to withdraw from the league. During the football season the Clayton commissioners practiced on the Davis field, which is about a mile from school. This gave a serious handicap. Clayton will take part in track meets, here. It is provided with a small track, adjacent to the school.

Excluding the pitching staff, Elsison is well set to repeat its performance of last year and carry off its second championship. Coach Alter has six veterans back. Mcennis, who twirled last season, will be absent. A newcomer, Bruce, will attempt to fill McGinnis' place, the outfit, Halter will have McGinnis and Ulrich. In the infield, Oth will be at first base, Van Loon at second, Capt. short and Scott at third. Bruce and Gossom will probably be the opening battery against Normandy.

JACK DELANEY LIKELY TO VACATE LIGHTHEAVY HONORS

NO MONEY IN TITLE, SAYS HIS MANAGER

by T. C. Garrison

The Passing Show.

TO add to Bucky Harris' woes, he has a badly damaged toe, To go with his bum finger. The fair but fickle Lady Luck has squarely turned her back on Buck.

And with him will not linger.

But, still we note in spite of all, His team is playing winning ball And scoffing at disaster.

When all the cripples get in line And Walter Johnson starts to shine, They'll step along much faster.

The celebrated Fordham Flash Continues that old pill to smash To fandom's satisfaction.

If Frank keeps up his present gait The customers will crash the gate To see our star in action.

Although Old Sol on Easter Day Came out and let the "Brownies" play.

The weather's been depressing. And while it may not be so wet, J. Pluvius is still a threat, And keeps the roosters guessing.

QUOTE SO.

Although a game won in spring counts just as much as a game copied in the fall, it has been our observation that the standing of the team at the end of the first week of the season is no indication of how they will stand at the close of the last week.

MEN Originally Came From Eggs, Indians Think."

... and some of those old roosters must have come from pretty bad eggs.

WE ASK YOU.

THOUGH bards, on hats and Easter eggs,

Have written many sonnets, When girls display their Easter legs.

Who sees their Easter bonnets?

"Buck Weaver Clears Bases With Double in His Semipro Debut."

You can't rub that out, Judge.

Buck may be persona non grata in organized baseball but he knows how to bust up a ball game of the unorganized variety.

See where Col. Lon Chaney the man with the versatile eyes is giving his public a general idea of Who's Wu in China.

We Have With Us—

Chancy Depew, who will be 9 next Saturday has decided to omit his annual birthday dinner.—News item.

LET younger men with keener zest.

Make after-dinner speeches;

A man's entitled to a rest When ninety-three he reaches.

Very Likely:

Mr. Depew's remarkable age is probably due to the fact that while he perhaps has made more after-dinner speeches than any man in the world he has stepped the earth.

The rule passed long ago, did nothing to prevent champions. There was no rule which would prevent Depew from meeting Pauline if he remained in title, but there might be.

The Bowls would no doubt look upon Jack's vacating as a strike and they could place a weight limit on men who sought laurels against heavier men.

If Delaney vacates the title, he could try his luck among the heavyweights, but he would be a long time before he reaches the top without anything having to step out of his class.

The rule, passed long ago, did nothing to prevent champions. There was no rule which would prevent Depew from meeting Pauline if he remained in title, but there might be.

The food one gets at the average banquet would have an ostrich piping the pepian bottle.

De Mar Hailed by Whole Town Of Melrose, Shakes 4000 Hands

38-Year-Old Typesetter Who Won American Marathon for Fifth Time, Welcomed as Super Athlete.

By the Associated Press. MELROSE, Mass., April 20.—Clarence De Mar, 38 years old, was hailed as a super-athlete today.

No conquering hero could have been tendered a more enthusiastic reception than that accorded the type-setter who won his fifth victory in the Boston Marathon yesterday wearing the American Legion colors.

When he raced his way to the undisputed title of America's greatest marathon runner he hung up his coat and cap and, with a smile, took off his cap, hopped into a mackinaw which was met in Melrose by an official delegation headed by city officials and from that point his home coming was a triumphal procession.

Warned by fire whistles and church bells, the population turned out en masse. Police and firemen escorted the runner extraordinary through crowded streets to the city hall where he was presented with a big cake, baked by his mother, Mrs. Carl De Mar, who stood proudly by the side of her son to receive a basket of flowers, the gift of the munificence.

Then De Mar shook hands with more than 4000 persons who passed in line.

Through scientific survey, had been lengthened nearly 200 yards.

Once the race was over Lt. Mar, as fresh as ever, hopped into an automobile which was met in Melrose by an official delegation headed by city officials and from that point his home coming was a triumphal procession.

Warned by fire whistles and church bells, the population turned out en masse. Police and firemen escorted the runner extraordinary through crowded streets to the city hall where he was presented with a big cake, baked by his mother, Mrs. Carl De Mar, who stood proudly by the side of her son to receive a basket of flowers, the gift of the munificence.

Dr. Bill Edwards, athletic director and track coach, who will accompany the team, gave the local athletes but little hope for the meeting with the Sooner squad. In the indoor meet, the Oklahomans were unequalled in the strength in all departments and a sufficient willingness to contest the events that Nebraska, previously conceded the championship, was forced into second place. They are an especially formidable opponent for dual meetings because of the number of first-string men in all events.

GARDINI SIGNED FOR COLOSSEUM MAT BOUT

The meet with Arkansas may be delayed since the season may otherwise find the Bears blanked as far as tenth victory goes. The Razorback varsity, however, has already participated in four outdoor meets this season, while unfavorable weather conditions have prevented the Bears from running against time for more than a fortnight.

Lettermen who will be on the field are Capt. Jack McDonald, pole vault; Paul Harding, sprint and quarter-miler; Lorraine Eckert, quarter-miler, and Carl Ledbetter, dash man and high-jumper. Harding and Eckert will also run on the relay team with Earl Millard and Carl Benz, both members of last year's squad.

How's this for base running? A Rochester man circled the bags in 13 4-5 seconds.

—and how's this for consistency?

Of all the cigarettes, one—and only one—has been among the top five every year since 1906!

You guessed it right—Piedmont. Apparently smokers never tire of Virginia tobacco straight—for Piedmont won on taste and continues to win on taste—the characteristic purity of flavor of mellow Virginia leaf.

Also in vacuum tins of 50

Note. With the sole exception of celebrated Richmond Straight Cuts, Piedmont is the only "Virginia tobacco" cigarette enjoying a national sale.

Hunnewell Station Agent's Property at Seminole, Ok., Affected by Oil Boom.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HUNNEWELL, Mo., April 20.—Six years ago, J. C. Stephens, station agent for the Burlington here, inherited two vacant lots in the village of Seminole, Ok., from his grandfather.

The struggling village of Seminole meant nothing to Stephens, and letters from the County Clerk about taxes went unanswered until about a year ago when Stephens learned oil had been struck around Seminole.

Recently Stephens received an offer of $25,000 cash for the lots. Stephens is 54 years old. He was born in Williamsport, Pa., and came to Missouri 33 years ago. He plans to go soon to Seminole, now a city of 45,000, to dispose of his property.

as Member of State Eleemosynary Board After 28
Years' Service.*CITICISES ACTION
OF THE MAJORITY*Says Spirit of Non-Partisan
Law Has Been Violated
in Ousting of Dr. Johns and Others.*MEXICO Mo., April 20.—Resignation of the political spoils system in the management of the six State eleemosynary institutions, housing more than 7000 insane, epileptic and tubercular patients, today caused Col. R. M. White to submit his resignation as a member of the State Eleemosynary Board to Gov. Baker as a protest against abandonment of the system of non-political control.Col. White's resignation followed quickly the action of the board in removing Dr. George A. Johns, State Health Supervisor, and other officers of the department to provide berths for political favorites. Col. White's letter of resignation was forwarded to the Governor this morning. He said:Criticism of Present Board."I am asking you to kindly accept my resignation as a member of the State Eleemosynary Board, the same to take effect immediately. I am conscious of the honor conferred on me by your appointing me to this position and, of course, after 28 years' service, I had regret the circumstances which compel me to write this letter.""I am forced to the opinion that the present board is not carrying out the spirit and intent of the nonpartisan eleemosynary law which was intended to take the six institutions under its control out of politics for the good of the patients.""Not being in harmony with the other members of the board in policies of major importance as I see them, I deem it my duty to the Governor, the State and myself to resign.""I have always taken my board duties seriously and have given this matter careful consideration before taking action.""Since voting and protesting in the board meeting Monday against the political scheme which resulted in the ousting of Dr. Johns, Dr. M. O. Biggs, superintendent of the State hospital at Fulton, and Capt. C. C. Corey, steward at Fulton, Col. White has received more than 100 telegrams and letters commanding him for his course. His resignation was directly due to the latest official act of the board, but previous actions tending in the same direction had a bearing in bringing it about."Politics Figured in Changes."As previously told in the Post-Dispatch, the official changes were made to provide places for supporters of Gov. Baker. Dr. Frank B. Fusion of Springfield, who succeeds Dr. Johns, has been an $1800 a year assistant physician at the Nevada Hospital, and has been active in Republican politics. Dr. E. T. McGaugh of Richmond, who succeeds Dr. Biggs, is one of the Governor's personal friends, and W. C. Robinson, who succeeds Capt. Corey, has been a assistant job holder in minor clerkships in State capital departments for many years."The duties of Health Supervisor, as set out in the law, require the services of a specialist. Dr. John is a nationally known psychiatrist. Dr. Fusion has been a practicing physician for many years, and recently has held a job at small salary under the board."It has become known here that the plan for the raid on the institutions had been carefully worked out, but that Mrs. A. A. McGruder and the board members had overlooked one feature of the law."*McGruder offered a resolution vacating the three jobs and naming the successors of the men ousted. Col. White directed his attention to a provision of the law requiring that nominations for superintendent be made by the Health Supervisor. McGruder then went to the telephone and returned with the announcement that he had talked to Dr. Fusion at Nevada, and that Dr. Fusion had nominated Dr. McGaugh to be superintendent at the Fulton Hospital.*With the resignation of Col. White, the board will pass completely into the hands of Gov. Baker as the Governor will fill the vacancy.*Windstorm Hits Chesley, Ont.

He is trying to bully the Mexican government into validating the Doheny titles, which are fraudulent as hell. The Standard Oil Co. of Indiana looked into some of Doheny's titles, and called off its bid for acquisition of Doheny's holdings. Some of the Doheny titles were purchased in revolutionary times, from men who, just previously, had been threatened by bandits with death, or with the burning of their wells."*Liggett also discussed the history of American intervention in Nicaragua, charging that when Marines were first sent to Nicaragua in 1909, a high official in Washington was interested in a mining concession in that country.*He attributed the later policy of the State Department to the influence of two New York banking houses, which made a $1,500,000 loan ad took as security a controlling share of the stock of the Nicaraguan National Railroad and the Nicoya Bank. He told of the attempt of the later President, Martínez, to get back control of the railroad and the bank, but failed, that with Adolfo Diaz kept in the presidency by American marines, the control of the bank and railroad had again been pledged to Wall Street banking interests, and that a default on the loan was to be expected, after which the railroad and the bank will be again under Wall street control.Liggett said he had found that his experience in writing fiction was a good training for the study of foreign policy. He said that a thorough knowledge might result in recall of United States Ambassador Sheffield and Impeachment of Secretary of State Kellogg."I am asking you to kindly accept my resignation as a member of the State Eleemosynary Board, the same to take effect immediately. Dress So Expensive That Many Peers Stayed Away.*By the Associated Press.
TOKIO, April 20.—The cost of attending court functions and maintaining rank is so great in Japan that many peers are never seen in public because of their inability to stand the expense. The emperor, however, has suggested that court institutions and customs be simplified and the household department will draw up regulations concerning court uniforms.The uniforms have cost from*500 to 1000 yen each, and new ones had to be purchased every time the owner's rank was raised.*The new rules will make the cost less and the uniforms so constructed*that they can be modified at a small expense whenever the wearer's rank is changed.*SOUTH AFRICA PUTS STOP*TO SALE OF FAKE CURIOS*Takes Steps to Protect Tourists*From Dishonest Dealers in Country's Souvenirs.*CAPE TOWN, South Africa.*April 20.—South Africa has taken*steps to protect its visitors against dishonest curio sellers.*In recent years, numbers of tourists*have visited the Union and the government has realized it is bad business to allow visitors to take away "fake" curios. Now all local Chambers of Commerce have been asked to collect genuine curios from the native territories and sell them to tourists.*Among the genuine curios of South Africa are grotesque wooden crocodiles, Hippopotamus giraffes and other queer shaped animals made by the natives of Bechuanaland. Zululand produces wire curios, beads, weird wire egg cups and candlesticks. Zulu ornaments made of beads, such as necklaces, and anklets are also much sought after by visitors.*SENATOR FRAZIER SPEAKS.SENATOR FRAZIER, was taken back into the Republican ranks in the Senate last December after having been read out of the party previously, is dark, bald and compact. He balanced at the front of the platform, with one foot overhanging the edge, and spoke in a philosophic tone, frequently uttering a reflective "Oh, yes." Most of his discussion of foreign policy was in general terms, and he broadened the discussion to take in China, comparing the presence of marines there now with the sending of American soldiers to Russia in 1918."We know Mr. Kellogg of Minnesota pretty well, up where I come from in the Senate," said Senator Frazier. "We know him well enough to trust him. He has been president of the Yokohama Specie Bank, Governor of the Bank of Japan and Finance Minister.*The first undertaking of the Toshiroki Cabinet will be adjustment of the financial situation, which is considered the most serious of modern Japanese history.*PICTURE-WIRELESS ADVANCING*Berlin-Vienna Public Service Will Be Started Soon.*BERLIN, April 20.—The German postoffice announces that photo-telegraphy, or picture-wireless, between Berlin and Vienna has now reached such a stage of perfection that apparatus is being constructed in the head telegraphic office of both cities, to insure a public service in about six weeks.*At present experiments are being carried out by night only, transmitted by the ordinary wireless stations, which are not available during the day. To popularize the undertaking, the price of sending any facsimile document by wireless is to be kept "exceedingly low."*Experiments with South America, with pictures sent from the Berlin end, have been so satisfactory that short-wave transmitter is being erected in Buenos Ayres so that Germany can receive pictures at the same quick rate.*Mars Discusses Imperialism.Mars, who was the first speaker, talked entertainingly on the home background for American imperialism, speaking of the growth of great fortunes, and lessening of the proportionate returns to agriculture and labor."You shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you sick," he remarked. He said American investors had been careful to work out that the Mexican Government would continue in that country, that the question was whether they should be made to pay for the damage done to the economy of Mexico.*The rest of his speech was a discussion of farm problems and an advocacy of national control of power sources, particularly Muscle Shoals and Boulder Dam, in California.*A. E. WATTS, THEODORE DISPUTE WILL BE SETTLED SOON.*By the Associated Press.*NEW YORK, April 20.—An early adjustment of the controversy between the United States and Mexico over oil lands was forecast last night by A. E. Watts, president of the Mexican Sinclair Petroleum Co., and vice president of the Sinclair Consolidated Corporation.*Watts returned from Mexico City, where he had several audiences with President Calles and Luis Morones, Minister of Industry, Commerce and Labor. While he said the bone of contention, the new laws operating retroactively upon American holdings in Mexico, had not changed, he found no intention on the part of Mexico to confiscate American holdings, and said the problem was now being approached calmly.*Labor Cabinet Fights Reds.*By the Associated Press.*SYDNEY, N. S. SHANGHAI, April 20.—Responsible foreign sources reported today that the Peasants' Union was in control in Changsha, giving orders to the military and civil officials. Changsha is a treaty port on the Yangtze River, in Hunan Province.Disputes from Canton told of forces fighting yesterday outside the city between Government troops and peasant corps which were unwilling to give up their arms when ordered to do so by the Government forces.*It is said that approximately 4000 so-called red prisoners have been taken in the Canton area in the campaign of the Moderate Cantonese troops to disarm Radicals. The general situation in Canton is described as quiet, with the merchants jubilant over the activities against the Radicals.*War on Between Factories.*Actual warfare between the contending factions in the Nationalist movement started. Almost simultaneously with Gen. Chiang's announcement of the principles on which he is establishing his Government at Nanking, the Hankow Government, described as the radical section of the Kuomintang (Cantonese political party) yesterday issued a mandate dismissing Chiang Kai-shek as Commander-in-Chief.*Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, the "Christian General" and leader of the Kuomintang in Northern China, was appointed as Chiang's successor. Gen. Tang Seng-chi, military Governor of Honan, was named as Associate Generalissimo, and received orders to move his troops immediately towards Nanking to attack Chiang.*To reinforce all relations with Nanking and Shanghai was announced by the Hankow Government.*Chiang to Renew Campaign.*Renewal of the Cantonese campaign against the North is planned by Gen. Chiang Kai-shek as soon as a Cabinet has been formed for the newly established Government by the Cantonese Moderates at Nanking, official reports from Nanking said today.*It was stated that more than 300,000 troops are immediately available to Gen. Chiang Kai-shek from the Hankow, whereas only a meager force is available to the Hankow faction.*The newly established Government at Nanking does not intend to break with Russia and asks the friendship of all countries, but insists upon the abrogation of "the unequal treaties."

The Proposed U. R. Franchise.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

JAMES V. PRESTON, in this column, attempts to discredit "service-at-cost" by comparing it to war-time "cost-plus" contracts. This curious comparison clearly shows that Mr. Preston does not understand and probably has not read the tentative draft of the proposed franchise which has been available to the public for some time. If "service-at-cost" is to be compared with any building contract, it should be compared with the so-called "fixed fee, bonus and penalty" contract. In this case the "fixed fee" is the rental paid for the use of private credit to furnish the physical property necessary to a transportation system, referred to in the franchise as "rate of return"—it is in no sense a percentage of the cost of the operation of the system.

Provision is made in Section 14 of the proposed franchise for penalizing the owners by lowering their rate of return, if at any time, through carelessness or un-economical operation, the carfare rises above the average cost of living. This basic figure of what the carfare should be, to be fair, is determined by multiplying 5 cents by the general commodity index as published by the U. S. Department of Labor.

On the other hand, if the owners are able through careful and economical operation to keep the fare below this figure they are rewarded by having one-half of the savings returned to them by increasing the rate of return.

This reward for efficient and penalty for inefficient management is ample guarantee to the public that the owners will keep the control of the company's operations in the hands of efficient operators and that purchases, salaries, wages, etc., will be as carefully if not more carefully scrutinized than they are under ordinary franchise operation where there is no bonus for good management.

STUDENT.
Streets Needing Attention.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE STREET Department should take a look at the streets in the district from St. Louis Park north to Natural Bridge and west from Forest Park toward the Thousand Islands and east of the Thousand Lakes. You can see them if you will only examine these streets. If it should happen that the Fire Department should be called to go down Ashland avenue between Clay and Warne avenues, I would not give a dime for the apparatus or the lives of the firemen. This matter should be looked after at once.

Medical Autocracy?
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A CASE or two of smallpox has been discovered in a suburban community. A general vaccination order has been issued by the Board of Education of that town. The usual stampede set in. There followed a race either to have the boy cut out of school at a time when he is topping his classes or submit to the order. Submitting means filling his system with poison just as we have successfully fought off toxins in his blood that have previously impaired his health.

If the immunity offered by vaccination were the positive thing it is sometimes thought to be, I might feel more inclined to risk the permanent injuries frequently resulting from vaccination. But the ill logic of putting into a child's system a positive toxin to avoid a possible toxin is absurd as well as revolting.

Perhaps 2 per cent may be 10 percent of the population of the United States is at this minute immune to smallpox through vaccination, although probably 15 per cent or 80 per cent have been vaccinated. I have been vaccinated twice but am not now immune. The last vaccination left me with lingering bad effects for years, and its immunity passed before its bad effects.

While I am not adherent to occult or non-scientific curative measures, but have a doctor in my house at the first intimation of a need for him, yet there are certain things, such as vaccination, tonsil removal, etc., that cause me to rebel against the dogmatism of the medical profession. Is there not too much autocracy in these matters?

Public Opinion on U. R. Reorganization.
To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE, the members of the Car Riders' Protective League, wish to heartily commend the Post-Dispatch for the fearless and powerful editorials it has printed in connection with the reorganization of the United Railways Company. We know that the Post-Dispatch will exert all of its great power in behalf of the car riders of St. Louis. You may rest assured that you have the full support of the Car Riders' Protective League. We know that you will continue to fight the battle of the people and that you will not falter. Victory is assured because enlightened public opinion is irresistible.

ALDERMAN WIMER'S SOUND VIEWS.

In an interview with the Post-Dispatch, Alderman Wimer, chairman of the Special Committee on Rapid Transit of the old Board of Aldermen, gave an excellent outline of the commission on city transportation to be created by the new Board of Aldermen, and of its work.

Alderman Wimer thinks the scope of the commission should be practically unlimited. Although he was a member of the committee of the old board which outlined the plan of subways, he thinks the new commission ought to be free to adopt that report if it finds it satisfactory, to adopt any part of it or devise an entirely new plan. We quote what the Alderman says with regard to the application for a 30-year service at cost franchise by the reorganizers of the United Railways:

I well can consider the bearing of the present application of the reorganizers of the present surface lines for a 30-year franchise. Its ultimate plan could make use of some parts of the present railways or it could ignore the present railways altogether. It can call in expert advice from without St. Louis. It can comb the field as thoroughly as it chooses.

Mr. Wimer would have the commission take up the enabling act, and the plan of financing the subways, and arrive at some satisfactory conclusion with regard to all these questions.

This is a broad and sensible view of the situation confronting St. Louis at this time. It embraces the right kind of commission and the sort of work the commission ought to do. It is in harmony with the proposal of the Post-Dispatch that the whole transportation situation be thoroughly surveyed and studied, and that a comprehensive plan for rapid transit be outlined before anything is done with regard to the surface lines. We urged that, in view of changing conditions, the high valuation put upon street railway properties for rate-making purposes and the changes that may take place in the use of surface lines, there should be a thorough understanding of what is necessary to be done before any step is taken by the city with regard to either subways or surface lines.

The report of Alderman Wimer's committee, written by Consulting Engineer Smith, contains valuable data and suggestions. But we do not believe it quite covers the needs of St. Louis in view of conditions that have already changed and may be subject to even greater transformations in the future.

There is no need for haste. The present franchises of the street railway company do not expire for some time. They will continue to operate under the valuation, fares and returns granted by the State Public Service Commission. The public may suffer some hardships temporarily. But temporary hardships are better than permanent handicaps on the city's transportation system.

GOOD COUNSEL FROM PRESIDENT NEUN.

President Walter J. G. Neun of the Board of Aldermen, in his inaugural address, gave sound advice to the board on the subject of bridge exchange legislation. He told the board it should formulate a bill to put the municipal bridge to work for the good of the people of St. Louis. Welcoming suggestions from all sources, it should not give preference to bills designed to put the bridge to work which are sponsored or offered by special interests, whether railroads, other corporations or individuals.

There has been a great confusion of tongues, a perfect babel, on the subject of the exchange of bridges and of putting the municipal bridge to work. There is danger that the public will lose sight of the great objective of the use of the municipal bridge, which is to serve the people, particularly the business of St. Louis, through better and more economical service by all the railroads. No particular railroad or railroad interest should have any advantage over any other railroad or set of railroads. If a bill should be adopted that would hamper or cut out the great trunk lines and the great number of railroads operating through the Terminal Railroad Association, it would be a failure. St. Louis business would be handicapped.

The Board of Aldermen has the power to act. It should determine what will be the best possible use of the municipal bridge, for the benefit of the business of St. Louis, and act accordingly.

EXCELLING THE IMMORTAL GREEKS.

We are living in a period when the accomplishments of the ancient Greeks are objects of almost universal and constant admiration. By the young intellects just hatched from an incubator of higher learning and by the scholars of vast erudition, we are reminded that the Greeks excelled all peoples before and since in everything from esthetic to government.

Yet in one respect even uncouth and backward America has the Greeks beat by several city blocks. We refer to the treatment accorded disseminators of political heterodoxy who have been victims of mob hysteria and legal and judicial injustice. Consider, for example, the treatment we have accorded Sacco and Vanzetti and that which the Greeks gave Socrates.

One of the influences which led to the conviction of Sacco and Vanzetti for murder was, reputedly, the fact that they were confessed opponents of the prevailing economic and social order of their day. This fact was accentuated by the prosecution at a time when the public's mind was prejudiced against radicals because of the widespread anarchist agitation, and it is only reasonable to believe that the jury was not uninfluenced by this procedure. But have the victims of this unusual prosecution, heretics though they are, lacked the aid of public-spirited and justice-loving citizens? Not at all. They have the unselfish and devoted services of able lawyers and publicists.

Now contrast this procedure with that accorded Sacco. When that philosopher's criticism and questioning of the prevailing order became a nuisance to the powers that were in Athens, and he was framed on the charge of corrupting youth, did any of the influential men of the city come to his aid? Hardly. No William G. Thompson, no Felix Frankfurter, no press sprang to his defense. Only at this late date in the Greek Supreme Court, according to a report from Athena, reconsidering his conviction.

Herein we excel the immortal Greeks. This is something with which to floor the worshippers of Greece when next they demand that we genuflect before their ideal civilization.

HE FOUND A WAY.

When Gov. Baker and his henchmen endeavored to force through the Legislature a measure which would have ousted Dr. George A. Johns, the State Psychiatrist, and divided his $7000 salary among political doctors, the Post-Dispatch appealed to the State Medical Society for an opinion. Both Dr. Breuer, president of the society, and Dr. Pearce, chairman of its Committee on Public Health, condemned in the strongest terms any such revision in the management of State institutions. So did other leading doctors all over the State. In the heat of a widespread indignation at the time the bill was lost.

But there was a way to bring the State eleemosynary institutions to the pie counter. There was a way to get rid of science and its unpolitical exactions and return to the inhumanities of the past. There was a way to flout public opinion, or what any reputable doctor thinks, and turn the 7000 unfortunate of the State back into the hands of political doctors.

It was the Coolidge way. The way the Tariff Commission and the Federal Trade Board have been taken out of the hands of the people and delivered into the sinister clutches of privilege by means of the very agencies created to frustrate them. The Governor turned to his Eleemosynary Board. Since Hyde was Governor that body had lost its nonpartisan flavor and most of its usefulness. It had been stuffed with people whose designs, like those of the Governor himself, are wholly political. The board did in 10 minutes what in 90 days the Legislature could not do. It not only got rid of Dr. Johns and made part of his salary available for increases elsewhere, but it put in his place a doctor whose sole distinction was to have held an $1800 place at one of the hospitals as assistant physician.

Thus did the State of Missouri, which abased itself for so many years by turning its unfortunate over to the care of incompetents, recede from the advance it made under the Hyde administration, when a non-partisan board was created to administer the eleemosynary institutions and a psychiatrist with a national reputation was secured to give them the benefit of modern science.

Only the people of Missouri can say whether such damnable practices as these, such supervision of free and enlightened government by the people, such abasement of public office, and such a betrayal of his trust by its chief executive, can be tolerated. The Post-Dispatch does not believe it, and in that disbelief it looks confidently to repudiation by the people of the whole trafficking crew. In disgracing itself it has disgraced Missouri.

The authors and producers of the play "Sex" are spending 10 days in a New York jail. The play will not go on the road until the jails have been emptied by the spring terms of court.

DAVID E. LILLIENHALL IN THE Nation.

ARROW was once asked by a newspaper feature writer: "To what do you attribute your success?" The reporter had been interviewing leading business men whose answer to this question was invariably: "I owe my success to hard work." "That goes for me, too," said Darrow. "Hard work, in fact, is responsible for my choosing to become a lawyer. When I was 15 I hired out to a nearby farmer. I had never done any hard work before. The first day I pitched hay, and the sun was hot and I got very tired. The second day the farmer set me to knocking fat potato bugs off the plants into a pan of kerosene. By noon I was disgusted. I chucked away the pan and the job, and swore I'd never do another day of manual labor in my life."

Some fifteen years ago, in addressing the prisoners in the Illinois State prison, Darrow said: "It is not the bad people I fear so much as the good people. When a person is sure that he is good, he is nearly hopeless; he gets cruel—he believes in punishment."

According to the Warden of Sing Sing prison, the cause of crime cannot be fixed. Perhaps this may induce the reformers to start work on the penalties, if any.

THE FUTURE OF FUTURISM.

By John Rodker. (Dutton.)

It is probable that from the viewpoint of some cosmic intelligence, for which the human past, present and future would be equally clear, our obsession with the idea of progress would be quite as amusing as the spectacle of an enterprising cat chasing its tail is to one of us. We can see that the cat is laboring under the delusion that by increasing its speed of pursuit the tail can be overtaken.

The testimony of history seems to lend some weight to the suspicion that we may indeed be engaged in some similar pursuit. In the first place, as a world, we are not furiously engaged in the business of gratifying desire which only grows with feeding? And in the second place, as eager seekers of truth, are we not likely to pursue the shadows of our own misapprehensions, the speed of whose flight is naturally equal to that of our pursuit?

Futurism of late years has been greatly accelerated and our hypothetical cosmic intelligence should be having an hilarious moment. We have become so violently progressive and advanced that to be obstreperously modernistic is not enough, by any means, for our more athletic souls. It has not been enough to wipe out with a haughty gesture all the dearly bought experience of the past, that we might play Robinson Crusoe upon this little island of our moment. Some of us were clever enough to see that to be merely modern was only another way of being unprogressive. And so futurism just had to be invented.

Certainly futurism has unique advantages. When your vanity is of the future, who can successfully assail them? However idiotic a futuristic idea may be, it is at least quite safe from assault, for no one will get there to assault it.

Even the numberless questing ones have not succeeded in overturning futurism just had to be invented.

One likes to believe (and that appears to be a hollowed reason for believing) that Mr. John Rodker winked slyly at the world when he wrote down the title of his book here noted. For if the future of futurism could ever, by any chance, become the present, then futurism would be only unprogressive modernism, and that would be a pity.

Futurism must be futuristic or nothing. It is apparently both.

So also does the cat.

Brown U. Head Says 50 Per Cent Had Better Go Into Business.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 20.—"Regrettable incident—that is all," was the comment from the family of Miss Marian Dawes on the sudden marriage to another woman of Gordon Butler Bilderback, 28 years old, who was to have married Miss Dawes, April 30.

"We don't know anything about the circumstances," said William R. Dawes, the young woman's father, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and a cousin of Vice President Charles G. Dawes. "Just say, please, that we are satisfied it is so."

Miss Dawes was at a railway station here yesterday, en route to a midwest for her approaching church wedding to Bilderback at the same hour yesterday that Bilderback was being united in marriage at Champaign, Ill., to Miss Gertrude Sergeant, 27-year-old instructor in public speaking at the University of Illinois. Bilderback, an automobile salesman, and his bride departed immediately on a honeymoon trip. They had known one another for some time, their friends said, but no one expected an elopement. Dawes received some sort of a message from Bilderback.

Bilderback and Miss Sergeant were married by Judge Freeman in the Champaign County Court. A janitor and a cleric were witnesses. Bilderback attended the University of Illinois two years and Yale one year ago.

Many wedding presents have been received at the Dawes home. Among the usher who had been chosen for the wedding was August MacLean of St. Louis.

FACTS

about used car allowances

Most new car sales now involve the trading-in of a buyer's used car. More and more people are asking: "Why should my used car seem to have several values?.... Why should dealers in different makes of cars offer me allowances differing materially?.... Does the largest allowance offered mean the best deal for me?"

Here are basic facts:

- 1 Your used car has seemingly different values because competitive dealers are bidding to sell you a new car.
- 2 Your used car has only one fundamental basis of value: what the dealer who accepts it in trade can get for it in the used car market.
- 3 The largest trade-in allowance which is offered on your used car is not necessarily the best deal for you. Some- times it is; but sometimes it is not.
- 4 An excessive allowance may mean that you are paying an excessive price for the new car in comparison with its real value.
- 5 Judge the merits of the new car in comparison with its price, including all delivery and finance charges. Then weigh any difference in allowance offered on your used car.

When you are ready to trade-in your present car, remember that after all you are making a purchase and not a sale. You are buying a new car and simply applying your present car as a credit toward the purchase price of the new car.

President of Board Suggests Initiative Action on Bridge and Other Problems.

The new Board of Aldermen will hold its next meeting one week from today, following the swearing in of the members-elect and the effecting of an organization at yesterday's meeting. The committees will be named by President Neun at the next meeting or later.

As the recent election resulted in accession of only two new members of the board, it is expected that some of the committees will undergo little, if any, change. The Public Utilities Committee, which has held hearings on bridge legislation, and which is headed by Alderman Wiehe, held its last hearings of the previous session for the purpose of getting information for use at this session, and it was understood that its personnel would continue.

Alderman C. A. Neumann was re-elected vice president of the Board yesterday, and the secretarial staff was reappointed.

Address of Miller and Neun.
Major Miller, in talk at the initial meeting, bade the visitors "Welcome to the Temple of Virtue." He added that some called the City Hall "burglars' roost," but that this was from lack of acoustics.

President Neun of the Board, re-elected at the election of April 5, was the first to speak at the meeting. This is the beginning of a new and very important session of the Board of Aldermen. We will be called upon to solve a great many big questions, which will mean much for the future welfare of the City of St. Louis.

"In our city administration proper, there are only 21 elected officials, 29 of them being Aldermen and the other two being the Mayor and Comptroller. This makes our branch of the city government, to wit, the legislative, directly responsible to the people. We therefore have a great responsibility to the taxpayers. I believe that we should not only pass bills introduced into our board, but we should also take the initiative on big measures, more so than we have in the past."

View of Bridge Question.

"In regard to the bridge question, we should positively put the

ON many important counts, women are deserving the old-time "sanitary pad."

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. 5-times as absorbent! And deodorizes—ends all fear of offending.

✓ As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Ask without hesitancy.

Mrs. Nichols Narrowly Escapes Dangerous Ill - Health

Springfield Woman Suffering from Nervousness, Headaches, Dizziness and Backaches, Now Feels Like 16-Year Old Girl. Thanks to Tanlac

Beyond a certain point nothing in the world can call back youth and health. But the remarkable example of Mrs. Dennis Nichols, 806 W. Oliver Street, well-known Springfield, Missouri, mother of a son, proves that suffering in some cases is needless. She says: "I became so run-down that I was always tired, fagged out and drowsy.

"In spite of my troubles, the blinding, splitting headaches, the pains that scared my brain, dizzy spells that were so bad I couldn't do my housework, I tried desperately to smile and be cheerful. But it was impossible.

"If I got in a crowd in a store I would have to rest for a time to pull myself together. It must have been my nerves that bothered me. Food caused such severe gas pains and such pressure against my lungs that I could hardly breathe.

"Now, when I walk out and shopping no longer bothers me. I have gained weight and my stomach is better. I can eat and digest anything. I am always hungry. My husband said that I will eat him out of house and home. He can blame Tanlac. This wonderful tonic has given me health and made me feel like a girl of 16."

Benefit by Mrs. Nichols' experience. Let the miraculous tonic, made from roots, barks and herbs according to the famous Tanlac formula, give your run-down body, give you strength and relieve pain and suffering.

Tanlac usually gives amazing results. Ask your druggist for Tanlac. More than 40 million bottles sold.

"Soon after I began the first bottle I saw was improving, and after 3½ bottles I felt so good and strong and vital that I again decided to tackle the Peak. Thanksgiving day, I started out. I made the top, and returned feeling stronger than ever. Vinol gave me the strength and endurance to finally conquer the noted Pike's Peak."

If you are nervous, cannot sleep and have poor appetite, or if you have headaches, sinus, from lack of vigor and feel tired and hopeless,

CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and bad livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally, and never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark bowel mutiny" and a "dreadful feverishness" resulting in purple liver—constipation, diarrhea, piles, etc.—call in one of our Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets as bedtime.

Take them every night to keep right. Try them—the Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

Better in twenty minutes after simple home treatment

Seized in the night with a pain in her side like lightning? Quidore, California, woman got quick and complete relief by prompt home treatment.

"I applied Sloan's Liniment" she writes, "and now I shall never allow one bottle to empty before buying another. In twenty minutes I was better. In a very short time—peacefully asleep."

The reason that Sloan's gets these remarkable results is that it doesn't just deaden the nerves. It disengages our own corrective forces to those of the conditions that are causing the trouble.

Put it on lightly—no need to rub.

Immediately you feel a warm, comfortable glow as fresh, healing blood begins circulating through the affected spot. Tense, contracted muscles relax, congestion is broken up, the pain stops. So clean, pleasant and easy to use, too. All druggists—35 cents.

problem and not give preference to the bills on this question introduced by railroads, corporations or even individuals. Our bill should be known as the "Board of Aldermen Bill," and in it we should safeguard the rights of all the people of the city. If then the bill is referred to the people, it will not be a bill of any railroad, corporation or individual, but it will be the bill of the representatives of all the people, to-wit, the Board of Aldermen.

I believe it is the duty of all the officials of a big city such as ours to co-operate with each other in order to solve the big problems coming before the city. An exchange of views is always a great help to the true solution of any question, and, therefore, I am in favor of active and earnest cooperation of all officials of the city.

We must, at this session, do everything in our power to solve the smoke question. To my mind this is one of the biggest questions of the day. It can be solved as it has been in other cities. Smoke does incalculable harm to health and great damage to property and it is our duty to eradicate smoke as much as possible from this city.

In our efforts to make this city beautiful and protect the property of its citizens, we have passed at our last session a zoning bill which has the approval of the entire public.

We have passed many bills relating to street widening and general improvements, and have acted in so doing, in the best interests of the people. The people have confidence in our Board of Aldermen and we must act in the future so as to continue to merit that confidence.

This board, several years ago, passed the ordinance relating to our bond issue and we must see that the money obtained thereunder is economically spent. One of the results of that effort will soon be seen by the people, as the Courthouse is now being built on Twelfth street and will be completed in the next few months.

We must adopt safety measures in regard to our traffic situation, and cut down the number of deaths caused by automobiles and we must regulate traffic so that congestion at busy points will be eliminated as far as possible.

"We must keep foremost in our minds measures which will help our sick, homeless, the feeble and the suffering, and we must make such conscientious efforts in passing legislation for the benefit of the public in the future, as we have done in the past."

"On all questions coming before us, we must listen to all sides before making up our minds and prejudging the question in order to be fair and just to all parties.

Bond Projects Going Forward.

"During this coming four years we will see completed many of the improvements voted on by our bond issue. The Court House is now under way, and in a short time the Auditorium will be under way. Within a year the Olive Street widening will be completed, and we will have the pleasure, during our term of office, of seeing St. Louis go forward as it has never done before.

"In sincerely trust that you members will co-operate with me as fully in the future as you have done in the past, and we shall work together in such a way that the people will indeed be proud of the work done by this Board of Aldermen.

The two new members are William Hoeft of the Second Ward and A. M. Brinkman of the Fourteenth. All are Republicans. The 14 members installed yesterday are for the even-numbered wards, and will serve until 1931. The members from the odd-numbered wards elected in 1925, have two years more to serve.

ZINC F.O.B. ST. LOUIS KNOWN WORLD OVER

Stephen S. Tuthill Stresses Importance of the Industry to the City.

The fact that zinc is quoted in every market of the world at so many cents per pound, f. o. b. St. Louis, was emphasized by Stephen S. Tuthill of New York, secretary of the American Zinc Institute, in a luncheon address before the Chamber of Commerce today, in which he sought to impress his audience with the importance of the zinc industry to St. Louis and review the many uses to which the metal is put in daily life.

The occasion was the observance of "American Zinc Institute Day," which followed the conclusion of the institute's annual convention here yesterday.

"The greatest deposits of zinc in the world are in the tri-state district, where Missouri, Oklahoma and Kansas conjoin," Tuthill declared. "Last year the district produced 840,000 tons of zinc concentrates, valued at $42,000,000, and 10,000 carloads of these zinc concentrates crossed Missouri in 1926 bound for smelters east of the Mississippi."

In the tri-state district 10,000 men, mill, and in 150 plants, two-thirds of the zinc concentrates produced in the United States, one-third of the world's production. Although none of the zinc is today smelted in Missouri, 53 per cent of the slab zinc produced in America is produced in states immediately adjoining Missouri. In 1926 639,000 tons of slab zinc was produced in the United States.

The general public does not know how intimately zinc is associated with their life from the cradle to the grave. The baby's talcum is a zinc base powder, and his rubber toys contain zinc. His mother probably uses a vanity case containing zinc, and her cosmetics often contain zinc. Zinc is used in paint, in lighting fixtures, brass ornaments, wall paint, window shades, contain zinc. Zinc is in the dye of her kitchen linoleum or oil cloth, her washing machine has zinc parts, and the pipes of her hot-air furnace are protected by zinc coating.

Reading matter in the home is printed with a zinc content ink, and the illustrations are etched on zinc sheets or plates; the house may be painted with zinc base paint. It may be roofed and guttered with rolled zinc, and the garage may be zinc coated or galvanized. The automobile contains 4 per cent zinc in metallic form, and zinc oxide is probably used in its rubber tires.

Zinc is used in medicine in various forms as a preservative, against rust and corrosion. The metal in a pipe organ is 75 per cent zinc and the linings of caskets are largely zinc."

Rail Shares Prominent on 'Change

Easy Money Rates Continue to Provide Stimulus for Speculative Operation for the Advance — Oils Recover More.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 20.—Speculators for the advance continued in control of today's stock market, which was featured by a revival of activity and strength in a selected group of railroad shares. Some of the independent steel turned heavy on the publication of relatively unfavorable first quarter statements, and a few new soft spots cropped out here and there, but the general trend was toward higher levels. The apparent ease with which some stocks were bid up indicated a scarcity in the floating supply, which in the case of seasoned dividend paying issues, presumably has been reduced by heavy investment purchases of the last few months. Continued ease of money, with indications that no permanent stiffening will take place before the crop moving season, is regarded as an important bullish factor.

Quarterly reports published thus far have been mixed in character. Republic and Youngstown Steels did not do as well this year as they did last year, but the United States Steel report due next week is expected to show a favorable comparison. The weekly steel trade reviews reported current sales well below those of last month, but operations continue at a relatively high rate. Hudson Motor, first quarter sales up 50 cents a share more than those of the corresponding period last year, while Hupp showed a substantial decline. General Motors, after touching a new peak at 188 1/2, lost most of its gain, and Pierce-Arrow preferred sagged another two points.

A sensational rise in Texas & Pacific which carried it up above $1 to a new peak, and sharp advances in the Chicago & Eastern Illinois issues featured the railroad group. A new record was set for support for such issues as Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific, Reading and New York Central.

Strong Specialties.

Abram and Straus, International Shoe, R. C. Macy, Pullman and South Porto Rican Sugar, with extreme gains of 4 to 7 1/2 points, were the outstanding strong spots among the specialties.

Closing Is Strong.

The closing was strong. The buying wave continued during the less active share in the late trading when Southwestern railroads increased their gains largely. St. Louis-Southwestern advanced to 76 1/2 and Rock Island to 93 1/2, both new peak figures. American Ice, Jewel Tea and Childs Co. improved 4 to 5 points. A block of Submarine Boat changed hands at 5. Total sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.

Stock prices displayed a firm undertaken at the start of market with several large blocks of stocks changing hands. United Drug and Gorham, Mayors and new record high prices and Lehigh Valley showed a gain of 1% on the first sale. Commercial Solvents opened 4 points lower.

Easy Money Rates Continue.

Easy money rates continued to provide the stimulus for speculative operations for the advance. Oils made further recovery as a result of the drop in crude oil production last week. Colorado Fuel moving up to a new peak, while Houston General Asphalt recorded substantial gains in the early trading. Railroad movements which have been under accumulation on expectations of large railroad orders, moved forward under the leadership of Pullman, which recorded an early gain of 5 points. Lehigh Valley and Texas & Pacific mounted to new high levels, but the other rails were quiet, with traders inclined to hold back publication of March railroad earnings before examining their commitments in the group. The Kansas City Southern, the first to report, showed a decrease in net last month, compared with the corresponding month last year. New peak prices were established by International Telephone, Woolworth and South Porto Rican Sugar. Youngstown Sheet & Tube declined 2 points.

Advances in Lira.

Foreign exchanges were firm with a jump of 5 points in Italian lire to above 5 cents as the feature. Demand Sterling ruled around $4.35 2-16 and French francs just above 2.91 cents.

Southwestern Rails to Front.

Increased selling of the independent steel issues, Gulf States dropping 3 points, restricted buying of U. S. Steel, which, however, held steady. Starting of a new bullish demotion in the Southwestern railroads, dividends paid, Missouri Pacific common reaching 5%, the preferred 11 1/4% and Texas & Pacific 7 1/2%, all figures never before attained, was reflected in a better demand for investment railroads. New York Central crossing 150. Various specialties were buoyant. Remington Typewriter, jumping 10 points to 210 and Abraham & Straus 5 1/2 to 8 1/2%. The renewal rate on call loans was unchanged at 4 per cent.

Rules for Success

By Lucy Lowell.

"USE your imagination" is the advice Otto H. Kahn, financier and philanthropist, gives to young men wishing to make a success in life.

"What is the use of that?" a young friend objected. "Imagination is all right for artists and writers but what good is it to the ordinary worker?"

It is to the ordinary worker the difference between remaining ordinary and becoming extraordinary, the difference between plodding and climbing.

Imagination is the power to visualize; the ability to see what may be in the place of what is.

Imagination is the capacity for seeing ideas as tangible things. And this is what it should be, for every great or beautiful thing was an idea deep in someone's mind before it materialized for the world to see.

Another piece of advice Mr. Kahn gives the would-be successful youth is this: "Meet your fellow men frankly and fairly. You don't have to go through business armed to the teeth. If you are successful be patient and conciliatory."

There is a mistake notion among some that only the fighter wins. "Be aggressive" is the watchword.

Aggression is a good thing if it means alertness, the dare-to-do spirit.

But pugnacious assertiveness never won anything which lasted. Truculence may force a way for itself in small things, but it never is convincing.

Success is won through the faith and friendliness of those one has to deal with, never by trying to impress them with unmannishness or shows of temper.

And, of course, it is the man who believes himself and his powers of attainment who can afford to be patient, courteous and conciliatory. When you meet one who shows none of these traits towards others, you know that he is trying to cover some weakness in himself.

Fast and Loose Living of Parents Is Blamed for Lax Morals of the Children

Mothers Who Turn Their Homes Into Saloons and Set Sons and Daughters Bad Example Taken to Task by Mrs. J. Borden Harriman.

"Is it any wonder in such cases that the young assume a patronizing attitude toward their elders?"

going to school. Meeting men I go to school. "Where do your girls go to school?" "Why, I really can't tell you. I don't know." But aren't you concerned about their being properly educated?" "Oh, I trust my wife," or "I take that for granted—the school's been highly recommended." They pay more attention to their business, horse-racing, the buying of a car, or the affairs of their club, than to what should be the most important duty in their lives.

"There are fathers who, when their sons begin sowing wild oats, stop their incomes and turn them out of doors. A man of this sort doesn't consider how far he was responsible for his children's undisciplined acts; when the boy was young he failed to gain his confidence, never took the time to exert a needed vigilance over him or teach him to respond to proper guidance. And at a critical time when this neglect showed its results, instead of trying to make amends and set the boy right or get him out of trouble, the father's impulse was to punish him and cast his drift to shift for himself.

"I have in mind families in which the children were practically ignored by their parents from their kindergarten days until the time they went to college. One or two instances may be illustrative of the point I want to make. One boy got involved with a girl entertainer in a night-club, a hard, mercenary creature to whom he wrote compromising letters, and who tried to blackmail the family through a breach-of-promise suit. The girl was bought off and the boy was banished to a ranch out West. Instead of taking him in hand and trying to lift him up, he was sent out in the world in probability to go down. After a year of dissipating a lot along Broadway and having I don't know how many automobile accidents, married a girl out of his class and was cut off by his family. The girl divorced him when his income stopped. He began drinking heavily; his mother secretly gave him money now and then, but from last reports he is going steadily downhill.

"Some Mothers' Examples. "And what shall we say of mothers who have gone in for dancing and the excesses of this age of upset and transition; who haven't been able to adjust themselves and live up to their jobs; who, instead, outside their children in overpainting and overdressing themselves and the extremes of fashion and frivolity; who carry on intrigues with younger men, and at 40, or 50 act like girls of 20; who spend their nights in the night clubs and turn their homes into saloons where drinking goes on all the time, with incessant jazz to the accompaniment of a cabaret orchestra. In radio? Can we expect their daughters to be any better?" If there has been a demoralization among the young, there has been a let-down in social barriers, in the ordinary decencies of proper conduct, in all decorum and self-restraint among older people as well. And there is nothing more deplorable than the hostess who turns her home into a clubhouse in order to draw men around her and satisfy her craving for excitement and attention, and then wonders why her sons and daughters plunge into a fast and reckless pace.

"Among my acquaintances there is a woman who is typical of Louise's childhood, like mine, was a conservative one, and in the changes which came about after the war, she had a background to fall back upon and from which to get her bearings. But like many other women, when the old-time anchor of restraint and conventions was taken away, she went adrift, or perhaps wantonly took advantage of the license allowed in an age of unrestraint. She had never cared very much for her husband, who was killed in the war. Her freedom, and the fortune she inherited at his death, gave her full rope to live as she pleased. Louise had always been crazy about men; there had been rumors of light flirtations, but never any definite scandal. She was not attractive, and seemed to have little real charm for them. But today to all appearances she is one of the most popular hostesses I know, and her house is generally filled. Why? there are always trays of cocktails and whisky-and-soda being passed around. Neither physically alluring nor witty, Louise seemingly does nothing to make her home delightful except to serve free drinks. And she makes it the chief attraction to draw men about her, not realizing many men will go anywhere these days to drink. Louise has an unmarried daughter, just past 20. What must the daughter think when she sees the mother acting with so little self-respect? What safeguards has that girl in such a home atmosphere?

"And what has the older generation to offer? It is the older which has given them jazz, the trashy songs of the day, indecent plays, risque books, and the general idea that everything savoring of 'puritanism' must go into the discard. It is older people who have set the example of breaking the prohibition laws. In the reaction against puritanism we have gone into vulgarity. And the miracle is that the young are as decent as they are. It is amazing what children are doing for themselves against adverse influences and conditions.

"If we of the older generation do not realize our faults, how shall we seek to correct those of the younger? If we are to prevent the young from plunging into folly, parents must have the ambition to influence their children to be better than they were themselves. They must give them the advantages of past experience, so ALLIGATOR is not being relegated to the shelf because of the arrival of the newer reptile grains. It is still among the highlights of fashion. Handbags in rose-beige alligator—rose beige tone—are being prominently featured in the shops.

Gold jewelry is very, very smart nowadays.

The "bridge ring" is new. It is sterling, set with a large colored stone, and is striking. It is worn on the third finger (next to the little finger).

Manon is a new leading hose color in Paris that is worn with the black costume by good dressers. It is a sort of mouse color.

Pearls continue to hold their leadership in jewelry, but for evening wear are often combined with emeralds. Long pearl necklaces are especially favored.

Cream of Cauliflower.

Select a large white head of cauliflower, trim off the green leaves and soak head down in slightly salted water for a half hour. Boil for 15 minutes in lightly salted water, then drain. Cut a few of the flowerets and set aside for the garnish, and rub the rest through sieve. Take the meat of white stock and put into it the cauliflower puree, pepper, salt, juice of a large onion, a teaspoonful of sugar, and a saltspoonful of curry powder. Boil gently for 5 minutes, then add two cupfuls of milk, hot, and thicken with roux. When the soup is thickened strain again, then put in the flowerets and serve.

Look at me again. How could a hand like this hold a derby?" and he said. "That's a mistaken idea many men have until I show them how well a derby looks on them."

Well, he put one on me, and I went over to the mirror, and I came along, and he said, "It makes you look like a different man." and I said, "I will say it does." He said, "A derby makes a man distinguished." It is a dressy hat, and it certainly looks well on you."

I said, "Can I really get away with it?" and he said, "Why, it looks like it was made for you."

So he got enthusiastic about it, and pretty soon I was liking it myself.

To remove all the scraggly cuticles before applying the polish. Soak the hands well in very warm water before starting the manicure. It will soften the cuticle.

Types of manicures are so varied that there is no pinning to any one style as the best, but for myself I prefer the nails not polished to such intense luster as a great many women use. And all men would look better with a medium manicure. Too highly polished nails on men rather shriek of personal vanity. Men should certainly care for their hands, but the effort should never be advertised.

The Diary of a New Father

Tuesday night.

WEll, today I had to buy some new clothes so Joan will think I look as beautiful as this guy Stewart, who lives across the hall, and why he is living at all is a puzzle, unless it is to make me miserable, and if that is it, then I will say he is making a success of his mission in life.

I took an hour off this afternoon and went over to the store where we do most of our buying on account of them being glad to have your business, regardless of how fast you pay your bill, and I bought a swell suit, and it will be sent out tomorrow, and then I stopped at the hat counter.

I said, "Want a hat?" and the saleswoman said, "What style?" and I said, "A twin for this one," and I put my gray felt on the counter. He said, "Wouldn't you like to try something different?" I said, "No," and he said, "How about a derby?"

I said, "I want a hat again. How could a hand like this hold a derby?" and he said, "That's a mistaken idea many men have until I show them how well a derby looks on them."

Well, he put one on me, and I went over to the mirror, and I came along, and he said, "It makes you look like a different man." and I said, "I will say it does." He said, "A derby makes a man distinguished." It is a dressy hat, and it certainly looks well on you."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

When I Have Failed.

By Aline Michælls

WHEN I have won, how sweet the world has seemed, how kind and friendly every stranger's face, when I have clasped the violet I dreamt of having, then the violet how short the race! The span of my endeavor. I review like some bright morning's hour of joyous climb, when up to heights and aspects fair and new I wandered in the fragrant summer-time. When I have failed—ah! joy has flown away like some gay bird too fierce a wind could flight. Then songs and blossoms all have left the day, and day itself turned gloomy as the night! When I have failed, then rarer gains were mine than any I noted near or far, for through the dimness have found faith's shrine and through the shades own I have seen hope's star.

She came out and looked at me, and said, "Is it a costume?" and I said, "What?" and she said, "What is the idea of the make-up?" I said, "Are you talking about my new hat?"

Well, Joan went back to the bedroom and got the baby, and he was glad to see me and he smiled, and Joan said, "There; I thought he would enjoy it." I said, "What is the idea, laughing at everything I buy?" and Joan said, "Who ever said you could wear a derby, with your face?" I said, "The clerk who sold it to me told me so, for one." And Joan said, "I guess he saw you coming."

I said, "Well, I like it," and Joan said, "You will never wear it when you are going any place with me, because I'll stay at home."

MORE LEVEES GIVE WAY AS RAINS SWELL MISSISSIPPI

Torrential Downpours Occur in Arkansas and Tennessee and More Rain Is Forecast.

TEXAS IS ADDED TO FLOODED AREA

St. Louis the Stage of 34.9 Feet Is Virtually Equal That of the Floods of 1908 and 1909.

The greatest and most dangerous in history of the lower Mississippi River is surging through a 1500-mile valley, from Missouri to the Gulf, and nobody knows where it will strike next. It is thrusting through more levees every day and, as it spreads, death, famine and pestilence are spreading too. A week ago today it became apparent that something worse than an ordinary April rise of the Mississippi was occurring, and within a week it developed that damage and suffering would be widespread. This week the situation became more serious, and yesterday the inundation of torrential rains generally in the vast watershed showed that even worse is yet to come.

Tributaries of the Mississippi continue in serious flood also, as the lesser streams that feed them and flood conditions have spread to Texas.

In the last 24 hours rain has fallen south of the Missouri and Ohio rivers, being particularly heavy in Arkansas, Western Tennessee and Northeastern Texas. More rain is forecast in the flood area south of Cairo, Ill., where temperatures and chilly temperatures threatened additional hardships for the 50,000 or more homeless and the arms of men working to hold the levees open-freezing but dry weather for hours is predicted north of there.

Six More Deaths. Six more deaths resulting from the flood were reported in the vicinity of Little Rock, Ark., yesterday, bringing the total well over 50, but the exact number has not been determined. Striving against death, pestilence and famine are the Red Cross and other relief agencies. Against the tremendous and growing power of the swollen Mississippi the fight with sandbags and earth becomes increasingly difficult.

Levee breaks in New Madrid County, Mo., which have submerged the county seat, New Madrid, and driven most of its population 2000 away, are permitting the flood to spread westward. A prediction made with the flooded St. Francis River, The tributary of the Southeastern Missouri, extending below the rest of the State, comprising New Madrid, Dunklin and Pemiscot counties, slowly and surely is being converted into an island, accessible only by boat, as railroads and highways are submerged and telephone and telegraph lines threatened with destruction.

Arkansas is hard hit by the flood, since the St. Francis, Arkansas and Red rivers are inundating a wide territory between two companies of the 140th Infantry, National Guard of Missouri, have been ordered on active flood duty, patrolling levees and performing other functions, in Southeastern Missouri, particularly in New Madrid, Mississippi and Pemiscot counties. They comprise 350 men, under Lieutenant Colonel Ralph E. Truman of Springfield. Adjutant General Truman, who has established headquarters at Charleston to direct the defense, said it might be necessary to call for more troops.

The State Board of Health has established headquarters for sanitation and relief work in Southeastern Missouri at Siloam Springs, under charge of Dr. W. R. Russell. A large supply of vaccines and other articles to fight spread of disease is being sent there.

Stage 34.9 Feet at St. Louis. St. Louis and vicinity, with considerable farm and waste land under water and basements of river side buildings inundated, is to higher stages. The Mississippi rose 7 a. m. yesterday to 34.9 feet, but it dropped 1 ft. of a foot yesterday afternoon then rose this morning stood at 34.9, which is virtually as high as in the floods of 1908 and 1909, exceeded only by the floods of 1905 and 1906.

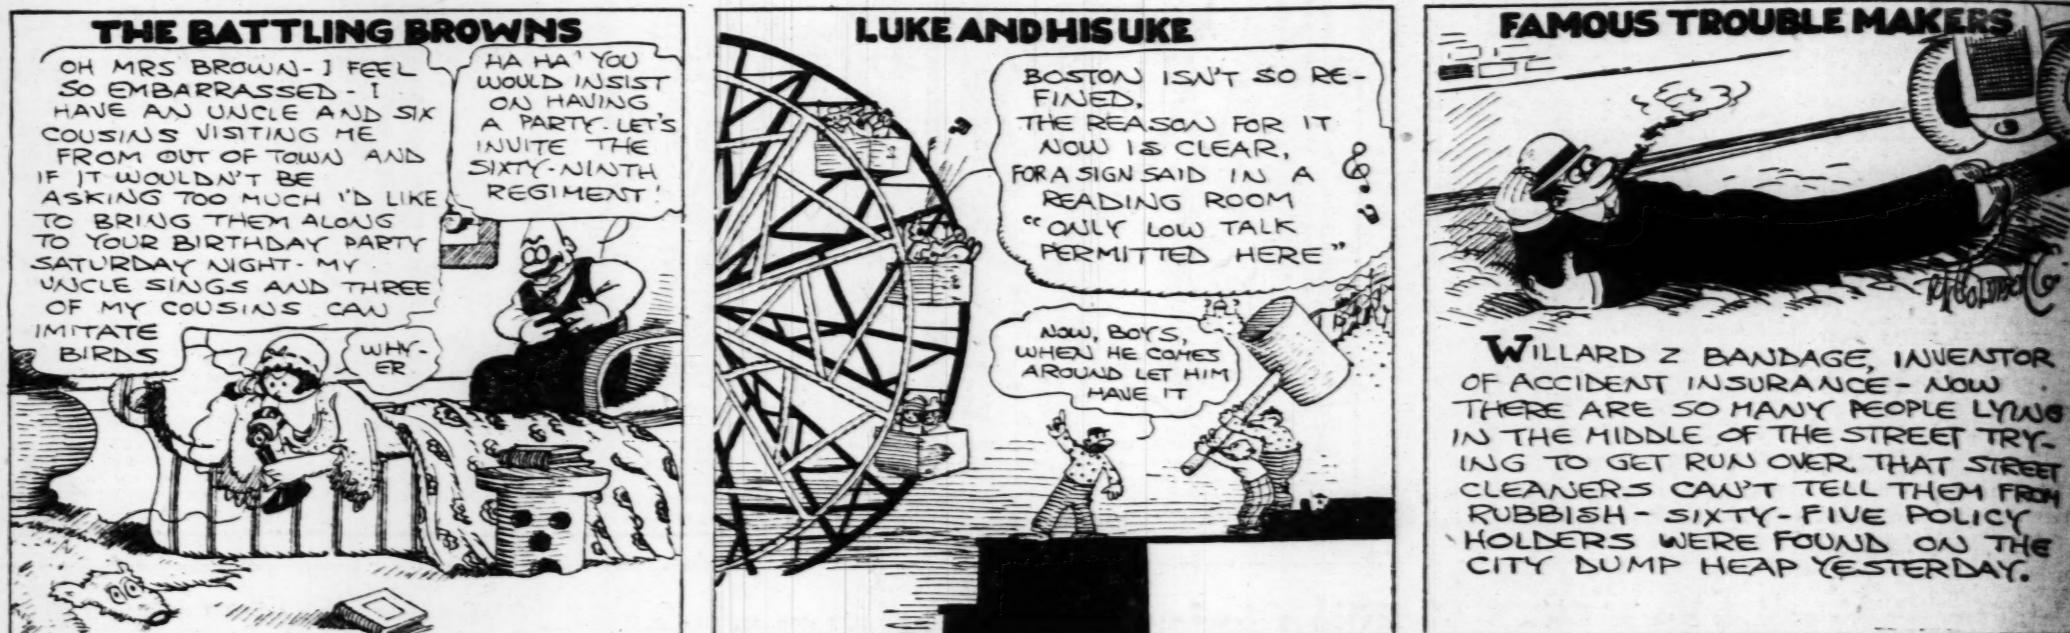

Forecasts yesterday of higher water by next week in the vicinity of St. Louis and along the Mississippi.
